Afrika Korps Resists Shelling In Coastal Area 50 Miles From Mareth Line.

BOMBERS ATTACK CRETE

Allied Air Forces Smash at Foe in Broad Area of Mediterranean.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The British eighth army, apparently in force, hammered the Afrika Korps well inside Tunisia with artillery and armored cars today.

The middle eastern command announced that the British eighth army yesterday was in contact with the Afrika Korps east of Bengardane, which is 20 miles inside Tunisia and 50 miles from the Mareth line.

The Afrika Korps was resisting at least along the coastal sector, because there the middle eastern command reported artillery duels. On the southern sector, which may extend 60 or 70 miles into the desert, armored car patrol harassed the enemy, the middle-eastern command said.

An Allied headquarters communique in North Africa announced that during the night of Feb. 8-9 bombers attacked the docks at Trapani, Sicily. Bombers and fighters, on a sweep off the Tunisian coast, sank a small enemy troopship and damaged another one. Land activity in Tunisia was light.

Weather conditions restricted air activity over the battle area yesterday, a communique of the middle eastern command and royal air force said, but bombers based in the middle east blasted the Axis with unusual fury.

Tuesday night, medium bombers attacked the airdromes at Heraklion, Kastelli and Pediada, in German-held Crete. The United States ninth air force, operating in the middle east, had previously announced a raid by two-motored Mitchell bombers on those airdromes Tuesday evening.

Torpedo bombers attacked an Axis ship off the south coast of Italy Tuesday night, while Allied

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey today opposed legislation to require deferment of men with children until all single men and childless married men are drafted and said "the great majority of men" inducted in the next two or three months would be men with children.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Home front victory for the army in its struggle for more men appeared to be shaping up today, as selective service estimates disclosed more than 1,000,000 single men of draft age still were deferred because of their occupations.

Although some opponents to increasing the army's size clung to their stand, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, wiped out part of the opposition with his explanation of the army's needs to a closed session of the Liquor Stock In; Dealers Ask Rations

Mansfield Stores Given Supplies; Move Begins to Ease Shortage.

While Mansfield's two state liquor stores had domestic liquors for sale today after a shipment yesterday replenished their depleted stocks, the Buckeye Retail Liquor Dealers association moved to avert further shortages.

Neither of the local stores had any domestic liquor for the past four or five days with the result that the South Park street store had been closed throughout Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

It opened about 2:30 p. m. yesterday after the new supply had been stamped and placed on the shelves. The North Main street store remained open despite the fact it was unable to fill some orders.

Proposal of the dealers' association was for an immediate ration order to be put into effect which would close all liquor stores for 10 days to permit issuance of ration cards to Ohioans over 21, and then to permit purchase of only one bottle per person each week.

Such a detailed recommendation was directed to Don Fisher, acting state liquor director, to end confusion and eliminate the flow of legal liquor into illegal channels. Fisher declined comment.

He was asked further to consider the possibility of operating liquor stores only three days a week to eliminate loss of time. Some interpreted the action as a plan designed to increase allotments to liquor permit holders, who according to an officer of the association "are threatened with being forced out of business in a few months if present conditions are allowed to continue."

The new shipment of liquor to the local stores arrived in time to fill increased holiday orders since all state stores are required to remain closed throughout tomorrow in observance of Lincoln's birthday.

With the present per person limit on liquor purchases, employes of the local stores said that while business was "good," they had experienced no "rushes" and that sales were not unusually numerous.

TOLL RISING

British Rescuers Probe Debris of Bombed Restaurant.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Rescue workers in a small town near London probed the debris of a blitzed restaurant today and the death roll increased by the hour, with many victims still unidentified.

Many were killed there and elsewhere when Nazi bombers popped out of low-hanging clouds yesterday. In one town a carriage, with a baby in it, was blown over roof-tops to crash in an adjoining street. Pieces of the shattered vehicle were found beside the child's decapitated body.

Another woman left her child in the care of a neighbor. A bomb hit the house and killed both baby and neighbor. Not more than 10 Nazi planes are thought to have been in the attack and three were destroyed as they strafed almost a score of towns—flying just above the house-tops.

STATE OFFICES CLOSE

COLUMBUS —(INS)— All state offices will be closed tomorrow in observance of Lincoln's birthday anniversary.

Mansfield Marine Home for Rest After Dodging Guadalcanal Bullets

His Gun's Notched For Sniper Shot Out of Tree.

With his gun notched for at least one Jap sniper he dropped out of a tree in the Solomons and the dead Jap's cigarets as souvenirs, a Mansfield marine was back home today from Guadalcanal where he battled the Japanese invaders for four months.

Cpl. Foye T. Charles, a marine veteran and probably one of the first Mansfielders to go into action in the South Pacific, also is one of the first from the city to return with a first-hand story of the Solomons battle.

Granted a furlough to relax a little after going through 50 consecutive days of shelling by the Japs, Cpl. Charles is visiting his wife at 226 East First street and his mother, Mrs. A. B. Charles, 234 East Third street. He will be here 15 days and possibly 30 days if he decides to ask for more time.

Browned from long contact with the tropic sun and the sultry heat of the islands, Cpl. Charles was acting police sergeant during most of his stay in the Solomons from August through last December.

Only other Mansfielder he saw in the Solomons was Roger Nixon, whom he saw not long before he left Guadalcanal. They were in the same artillery unit.

After leaving Guadalcanal, he was with a coast guard unit in Australia for three weeks, then came across the Pacific with some Australian fliers en route to Canada. He landed at San Francisco and came to Mansfield from there.

"There was never a dull moment on Guadalcanal," he said. The highlight of his engagements with the enemy was "bagging" the sniper who had been harrassing the Americans.

CORPORAL FOYE T. CHARLES

The Mansfielder was sent out with a unit to locate the snipers and he shot one of them out of a tree.

Charles quickly confiscated the Jap's gun, money, and cigarets, keeping all of them as souvenirs. He wanted to bring the rifle back to his wife, but

ARMY TO STAGE WAR SHOW HERE

Part of Spectacular Exhibit To Be Brought To City For Three-Day Stand.

Mansfield will witness its own army war show the last three days of the month, starting Feb. 26, when a section of the spectacular show which appeared in Cleveland and Akron last summer will perform at the Mansfield armory.

Arrangements for the show to be known as a "Victory Exhibition," were completed yesterday afternoon by a local committee which met with a war department representative and Mayor William J. Locke. All proceeds above expenses will be devoted to army emergency relief.

Staged under the direction of the war department bureau of public relations, the exhibit will include hundreds of instruments of warfare with the exception of heavy machinery. Demonstrations of all lighter pieces will be presented while sound moving pictures will show the Food Industry Plans Huge Ads to Clear Up Point Ration.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The food industry has adopted plans for the largest advertising program ever undertaken by it to explain point rationing to the American public, it was disclosed today.

Final details were expected to be worked out at a meeting here in the next ten days.

FIXES PRICES

OPA Sets Dollars, Cents Charge For Butter Sales.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The office of price administration in a move to eliminate black markets in butter established specific dollars and cents ceiling prices today for sales by creameries and wholesalers.

An OPA spokesman said legal retail prices as a result of the new order will either remain unchanged or, in some cases, lowered one cent a pound.

ISSUES APPEAL

Ration Board Asks Volunteers on Gasoline Applications.

Volunteer workers were being solicited today for work at the ration board the last week in February to assist in handling renewal applications for "B", "C", "E" and "R" gasoline ration books, C. C. Beelman, chairman, announced today.

Holders of these books which expire March 31 are urged to come to ration headquarters immediately to get their application forms which may be returned by mail with coupon books mailed in reply before the expiration of their present books, Beelman said.

Workers who volunteered their services during the first registration are invited especially to assist in the rush which is expected, Beelman said. All workers, who have time to spare and are willing to serve gratis, are asked to call in person or telephone the ration board with information as to when their services will be available.

BLOOD DONORS FALLING SHORT

Less Than Half of 500 Return Cards Showing They Will Keep Appointments.

Less than half of the 500 cards mailed for reply to potential Richland county blood donors by the Red Cross blood donor committee had been returned tday, one day after the deadline for returns.

Importance of returning the cards immediately was stressed by Mrs. W. M. Layton of the registration committee in view of the fact that all appointments for donations, Feb. 18-19, dates for the next appearance here of the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit must be set up this week.

At least 150 donations a day are required by the mobile unit. This means that almost 250 registrations must be made for each day to absorb shrinkage. The mobile unit will operate Thursday, Feb. 18, from 1:45 p. m. until 5:45 p. m. and again Friday from 10:45 p. m. to 2:45 p. m.

Chairmen to handle registration in both Plymouth and Butler were added to the list of county registrars today. Mrs. W. C. McFadden will serve in Plymouth and Mrs. I. L. McCullough in Butler.

CIO APPROVES

Endorses Pay-as-You-Go, But Not Ruml Tax Plan.

WASHINGTON (INS) Warning that many workers are not going to have money enough to pay their taxes this year, the CIO today endorsed the principal of pay-as-you-go and collection at the source, but opposed the Ruml plan on the ground that it discriminates in favor of wealthy individuals.

The union's position was outlined by Philip Murray, its president, in a statement read to the house ways and means committee.

EXPERTS WILL CHECK PLANTS' MANPOWER USE

Consultants Will Also Go To Farms as Follow-Up of Roosevelt Order.

EXTENSION EXPECTED

102 More Areas Likely To Be Included in 48-Hour Work Week Plan.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The war manpower commission prepared today to send "manpower utilization consultants" into factories, offices and onto farms to ascertain whether manpower is being utilized effectively.

It appeared to be the first step in setting up administrative machinery for carrying out President Roosevelt's executive order which declared a 48-hour work week to be the national policy. The order already is mandatory in 32 cities.

Creation of a new bureau of manpower utilization within the WMC was announced last night by WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt in a speech before the American Management association in Chicago.

McNutt defined the new bureau's work as "finding out, down in the individual plant and production unit, how effectively the people on the job are performing, and to suggest means of increasing their effectiveness."

The way McNutt described the new bureau, it would operate on a voluntary approach. He said the consultants would work this way:

"They will come into your plant, your office or onto your farm and work with you and for you in:

"1. Determining the extent to which manpower and womanpower are being utilized by analyzing such symptoms as absenteeism, labor turnover, production restrictions and stoppages, low morale, performance on the job, idleness, the use of women, physically handicapped, etc.

"2. Analyzing personnel methods as to what methods you are using, the balance of an emphasis upon each method in relation to the others, their management-and-labor support, timing, etc.

"3. Setting up an overall

WANT FREEDOM

Puerto Ricans Ask U. S. To End Colonial Rule.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—(AP)—The Puerto Rican senate and house were unanimously on record today as urging that the U. S. congress end this island's colonial regime and permit its people to select their own form of government by popular vote — after the war, if not immediately feasible.

In a move unprecedented in 44 years of American rule, the legislature approved a concurrent resolution setting forth its views last night while Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell waited vainly for word that it was ready to hear his annual message.

The text of the resolution emphasized, however, that the Puerto Rican people would wait with "patriotic resignation" until after the war for action on the proposal if President Roosevelt and congress believed this course best.

Michigan Senator Denounces 'Lame Duck' Appointments.

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Sen. Homer L. Ferguson (R), Michigan's racket-busting junior senator, today denounced the administration's practice of appointing "lame ducks" to important government posts.

Ferguson said the point is rapidly being approached where the best qualification for a political appointment is to be repudiated by the people at the polls.

Pledges Europe To Be Invaded Under New Plan

Prime Minister Reports Half Million Allied Troops In North Africa To Follow Eisenhower, Cites Progress Against U-Boats.

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA—(UP)—Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower formally assumed supreme command of Allied forces from the Atlantic to Egypt today and welcomed three of Great Britain's outstanding Mediterranean war leaders as "the stars I wanted for the job."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to be a full general, coincident with Prime Minister Churchill's disclosure that Allied forces opposing the Axis in North Africa would be unified under Eisenhower's command.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Prime Minister Churchill declared today the Allies had landed nearly a half-million men in Africa and planned an offensive campaign during the next nine months with the goal of engaging the enemy "on the largest possible scale and at the earliest possible moment."

In a war review vibrant with his usual fighting spirit and brightened by unusual optimism, the prime minister brought back from the Casablanca "unconditional surrender" conference the news of a new unification of command in North Africa and the pledge that Europe would be invaded as soon as the United Nations were ready.

These were high points of his address to the cheering house of commons:

1. As the British Eighth army moves into Tunisia, the North African command is unified under the American commander, Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander second in command, and with Mediterranean air forces under British Air Vice Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, and sea forces under Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham.

2. The Allies are more than holding their own in the U-boat warfare, with a million and a quarter more tons of shipping available now than six months ago, with losses of the past two months at the lowest figure in over a year, and with the best rate of U-boat sinkings so far in the war.

3. Churchill will meet again with President Roosevelt within the next nine months.

4. British Field Marshal Sir John Dill and American Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold have conferred at Chungking with Gen-

RUSSIA: Reds Form 50-Mile Attack Front Close to Kharkov

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Capturing settlements between Belgorod and Chuguyev, the Red army formed a 50-mile-long assault front just east of Kharkov today, and the fighting was reported mounting in other sectors of southern Russia.

The capture of Chuguyev, 22 miles southeast of Kharkov, and Volchansk, 36 miles northeast, was announced by the Russians early today, along with the seizure of Pechenegi, which is 12 miles northeast of Chuguyev.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said furious battles took place at Chuguyev and Volchansk.

A dispatch to Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said that after taking the two towns, the Red army continued its advance westward.

Pravda said the Germans attempted to hold the Volchansk sector with a force of 80 tanks and two regiments of infantry, but large Soviet tanks led the attack that split the defenders, who were routed by infantry and automatic riflemen.

Below Belgorod the Russians were reported advancing down the big Kharkov highway.

(A dispatch in the London Daily Express from its Stockholm correspondent reported today that the Germans were evacuating Kharkov as Russian artillery shelled the city heavily, and it was indicated the swiftly-moving Red army troops had slashed to within six to 10 miles of the city.)

In the Caucasus, the Russians

NEW GUINEA: Allies Send Jap Force Reeling Toward Salamaua

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—In a sudden display of offensive power, Allied troops in New Guinea have driven the main Japanese force in the Wau-Mubo area back six miles toward Salamaua, killing 125 of the enemy, it was announced officially today.

A communique from General MacArthur's headquarters said Allied artillery was harassing the retreating Japanese, who are estimated to have lost approximately 500 men in fighting in that area in recent weeks.

Allied spokesmen emphasized that the action around Wau, which is about 35 miles southwest of the enemy base at Salamaua, still was on a small scale, but the tempo obviously was increasing, with the Allies definitely taking the initiative after repulsing Japanese feeler thrusts.

General MacArthur's headquarters, meanwhile, branded as "a complete fabrication a Japanese communique attempting to minimize the sweeping victory which the Allies won last month in the Papuan campaign.

"The statement in the Imperial Japanese headquarters communique x x x that 'the Japanese in New Guinea, after completion

Ohio's Highway Construction Costs Climb 38 Per Cent Under Bricker

Expenditures Increase $11,000,000 Between 1938 and 1941.

Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles on the cost of government in Ohio under Gov. John W. Bricker.

Since Martin L. Davey left the governor's office in Columbus in 1939, you haven't heard much about "hot mix" which was a prime topic during his administration.

And you may not have heard much about the cost of operating the state highway department since that time, either, though in 1937 and 1938 the costs of that department under Davey were subject to close scrutiny, and the basis of charges of extravagance.

But the figures compiled by the municipal research bureau of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce offer some interesting comparisons.

They show that in 1937, Davey's next-to-last year in office, the total cost of the highway construction was $15,068,724 and that in that year, additions and betterments totalled $10,333,277.

Four years later, in 1941, in the third year of Gov. Bricker's administration, highway construction costs were $23,376,983 and additions and betterments totalled only $9,977,093.

Personal service — which means payroll—in 1937 was $928,691 and in 1941 it was $3,661,236, more than three

New Angle---Teachers Go on Strike, Pupils Go Home

Asking for either a bonus or a raise of $250 a year to cover the increased cost of living, 50 teachers at Rankin high school, Pittsburgh, staged a sitdown strike. As a result, the school board sent the pupils home and they liked that (left). School Solicitor Leo Kostman said that "we just don't have the money to give them the raise they want." Russell Markovina was the only teacher who didn't join in the strike. He is shown in his classroom.

WINCHELL RAPS ATTEMPT TO 'GAG' HIMSELF, DREW PEARSON

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Mark Woods, president of the Blue Network, says that several commentators have violated the network's policy by departing from prepared texts to discuss controversial subjects in an "inflammatory manner" and that network editors have been reminded broadcasts must conform to regulations.

Although Woods' statement did not identify the commentators to whom he referred, newspapers here published reports that the action was aimed at Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson, columnists and commentators.

In an interview in Miami, Fla., Winchell declared:

"I'd like to say this—which I can't say on the radio any more—the fathers and mothers of this country who have sons and other kin fighting and dying to preserve freedom of speech and press should realize that the war is already lost back home.

"The only thing left is the newspaper. I hope the newspapers will fight harder for fredom which the radio has so meekly surrendered . . .

The Blue Network has been very liberal and generous and I can't squawk," he said. "They reminded me that there were certain rules that must be followed. They told me they knew I wanted to stay on the radio and they wanted to help me stay.

"However, the fact remains that certain people would like to stop Drew Pearson and me, and my fangs have been removed and my typewriter fingers rapped with the butt of a gun."

One published report here said that broadcasts by Pearson and Winchell were censored to eliminate criticism of senators and congressmen in connections with a coming trial of 33 persons charged with sedition.

In Washington Secretary Knox told the house naval affairs committee that statements Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) attributed to the columnist while Winchell was on naval duty were "not considered as scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of public morals."

The Knox report was filed in answer to a series of questions propounded in a resolution introduced by Hoffman. The resolution asserted Winchell made contemptuous remarks about congress and as an officer should be punished under the United States code.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The boys got all excited the other night when Southpaw Dean Hahn flipped 27 points through the hoops against Springfield. The boys wanted to know if that was an all-time record for a single game by a Mansfield high school bucketball player.

Well, the boys will have to go to the men for the answer, the men with memories, and clippings. And I can tell the boys now that Hahn's 27 points don't even come close.

I recalled that the archives of the dim, distant past recorded some tremendous scores rolled up by Mansfield teams. For instance: the 150 to 6 victory over Norwalk and the 102 to 0 swamping of Galion by the 1908-09 team, and the 114 to 1 shellacking of Mt. Vernon by the 1909-10 quintet.

So I called Tom Scott who played in that bucketball debacle against Norwalk.

"I've got the clippings right here," said Tom, "and I can tell you in a minute."

The minute elapsed. And then came the startling news:

"Eddie Palmer got 48 points in that Norwalk game, and Martin Jelliff, 12," said Scott. "I think that was the best anyone did that season."

Maybe someone scored more than 48 points in that 114-1 game with Mt. Vernon the next year. If Ed Longsdorf, who played in that game, knows of a better score, I'd like to hear from him.

And if anyone else knows of a better mark down through the years, I'd like to hear about it.

To get the dope myself, I'd have to check through all the papers from that far day to this, reading all the box scores of all the games in which 48 points and more were tallied.

That would take me until next summer and by that time you'd no longer be interested, and I'd be very tired of the subject myself.

That was quite a ball club Mansfield had back there in 1909—Scott and Jelliff and Palmer and Harold Creveling who's dead now and Bob Swigart and Max Pecht.

They won 15 games and lost two, one defeat coming from Ashland college and the other from a Findlay team which Mansfield had defeated in an earlier game.

They copped the state championship in the Delaware tournament won the city championship in a three-game series with the Y. M. C. A. and climaxed the whole Findlay for the mythical Ohio title.

If the boys want a record for Hahn, they'll have to claim a modern record, then prove it. Modern, would date from the year when the rules were changed to make a player who was fouled shoot his own free shot.

Coach Vern Hoffman didn't look any further into the records than last year's scorebook when Bob Winbigler was setting a new all-time mark for season's scoring.

He found that Winbigler had 21 points against Youngstown College and 21 against Massillon, and those were far from consecutive games.

Hahn got 49 points in two consecutive tilts, 22 at Fremont and 27 against Springfield, and Hoffman believes that is a modern record.

Was Hahn hot against the Wildcats? He made 70 per cent of his shots, and the Tygers hit for 38 per cent.

Capital Finally Defeated

Muskies Paste 70-64 Trimming on Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

THE last of Ohio's unbeaten basketball teams—Capital university's Lutherans—has fallen.

Muskingum pasted a 70-64 defeat on the Capital cagers last night at New Concord, leaving the Buckeye collegiate basketball field without a single undefeated squad. The defeat knocked Capital out of the Ohio Conference leadership and marked the second time in two years that Coach Bill Bernhiohr's boys have tasted defeat. They won 15 and lost one last season and had piled up 10 consecutive victories in a row in the current campaign, eight of them in the conference.

Although Capital relinquished its conference lead to Toledo, which has won four and lost none in league play, it maintained its edge in the statewide title chase with a record of 10 wins and one loss.

Free throws brought about Capital's undoing last night. Both teams finished the game with 29 field goals, but Muskingum cashed in on 12 out of 21 charity tosses while Cap was collecting six for nine.

The triumph gave the Muskies a season record of seven wins and four losses and a conference rating of four and one.

Toledo chalked up its 14th victory in the feature attraction of a doubleheader program at Toledo. The Toledo Varsity knocked off Cincinnati 50 to 34 while the reserves vanquished Toledo Naval Training station 62 to 41 in the opener.

Two out-of-state quintets met defeat on Ohio floors last night Defiance put on a rally late in the second half to edge Detroit Tech 41 to 38 at Defiance, and Youngstown beat Juniata of Huntingdon, Pa., 55 to 50.

Bivins Ranked as No. 1 Contender

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland today was ranked No. 1 contender for both the heavyweight and light heavyweight crowns by Ring magazine, boxing publication in its quarterly ratings.

The divisions are headed by Joe Louis and Gus Lesnevich, both inactive while in armed service. Following Bivins in the light heavyweight division are Anton Christoforidis, former champion; Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati; Freddy Mills and Lloyd Marshall.

Bivins and Christoforidis will meet at Cleveland Feb. 23 for the National Boxing Associations "duration" light heavyweight crown.

Barons Move Into Fourth Position

(By United Press)

The Cleveland Barons moved into fourth place in the American Ice Hockey league Wednesday night when they defeated the Washington Lions, 3 to 1.

The victory jumped the Barons over Indianapolis and Providence.

Les Cunningham started the Barons off with a first period goal and Leswick and Burlington added two more in the third as Frank Mailley saved Washington from a shutout.

HAVE GRID PLAYERS

KAUKAUNA, Wis.—(AP)—Earl (Curly) Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, said today there would be sufficient players available next fall to guarantee a full campaign for the National Football league.

MITCHELL AND DODDS SIGN FOR MILE RACE

NEW YORK—(UP)—Earl Mitchell of Indiana, victor in the first of the indoor meets, and Gil Dodds of Boston were the first entrants today for the Baxter mile in the New York A. C. games at Madison Square Garden Feb. 20.

Mitchell, winner of the Wanamaker mile in the Millrose games, and Dodds were the first milers to file and they were followed closely by Frank Dixon and Jim Rafferty.

Goes Ahead On Derby Plan

Wynn Says Race May Go In Red $100,000.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Col. Matt Winn, guiding genius behind the Kentucky Derby for the last 41 years, figures that staging the Derby at Louisville, Ky., May 1 may result in a $100,000 loss.

But that doesn't bother Winn. His burning desire is to keep its record string of 69 unbroken.

The Derby, America's premier race for three-year-olds has been run without interruption since 1875. Winn has seen all of them. He witnessed the first from the back seat of his father's wagon parked in the infield of Churchill Downs, home of the Derby at Louisville.

"We have no hope of showing a profit this year," Colonel Winn said today. "But that will be all right. We've had a couple of good years before and can take a loss without crying.

"The Derby will be run as scheduled even if only two spectators show up."

The 81-year-old president of the Kentucky Jockey club said spectators would be discouraged from coming to the Derby from outside the Louisville area, in order to co-operate fully with the wishes of Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director. Winn said Churchill Downs would not honor further requests for box or reserved seats from anyone not a resident of the Louisville area.

JACK, ZIVIC BOOKED

NEW YORK (UP) Lightweight Champion Beau Jack and former welterweight champion Fritzie Zivic were scheduled today for a 12-round rematch at Madison Square Garden March 5. Beau Jack decisioned Zivic last Friday in a 10-round battle.

Cubs Battle Minute Men

Loop Leaders Meet Club That Defeated Them.

Tied with Madison for leadership of the Richland county high school basketball league, Lucas Cubs tomorrow night face a serious threat to their high standing when they entertain the Lexington Minute Men at Lucas.

The Cubs are hoping the entertainment isn't too much in favor of Lexington, who defeated Lucas 28-22 in an earlier nonleague tilt on the Lexington court.

However, the Cubs have had a habit all season of playing their best game in league frays, and they're not considering the possibility of defeat tomorrow night.

Meanwhile a protest made by Lucas on its one defeat by Bellville has not yet drawn any action. County Superintendent Boyd Robinson says he has turned entire investigation of the case over to H. R. Townsend, director of Ohio high school athletics.

However, it is believed that any action Townsend might take would be merely advisory, and that final ruling would have to be made by the Richland county league. No league meeting has yet been called on the subject.

Madison goes to Ontario tomorrow night to defend its share of the league top honors, and may run into some difficulty. Ontario last week beat Bellville 39-26, the week after Bellville won over Lucas 20-19.

Other county games tomorrow night will find Bellville at Shiloh and Butler at Plymouth.

Globe Takes Second Place as City League Closes Campaign

Phil Buyers Forming Line

Clubs Promise Help With Playing Material.

NEW YORK—(AP)—If and when the Phillies get a new owner—and with all the fancy fumbling just now it looks more like "if" than "when"—virtually all National league clubs have promised to pitch in and help the loop's bottom outfit with playing material for 1943.

It was learned today that, in making the promise at the Tuesday meeting at which the league bought the Phils for resale, all but one of the clubowners agreed to lend a hand, even if the league is "stuck" with the Phils all season, in which case Bill Terry will be named to run the outfit.

Since the Phils' roster shows only about a dozen players with any past experience in "fast" company of Double-A calibre or better, it's easy to see that ball players will have to come from somewhere, unless the boys figure the Phils can use a set of two-toed slothis this summer.

What's more, the picture isn't any funnier than the situation that finds the Phils still sitting in the league's lap today, with the sale of the senior circuit's chronic headache to a private enterprise apparently no nearer the "signed and sealed stage" than when the loop bought almost the whole outfit from Gerry Nugent and other stockholders 48 hours ago.

Although there were enough bids coming in to fill a bridge tournament, the six-man New York-Philadelphia syndicate originally mentioned still was out in front. But one of the six, Capt. G. Herbert Walker, jr., Philadelphia-New York broker now stationed at the Dayton (Ohio) army air field, said the deal by which each of the six was to put up $25,000 apiece to buy the club's stock and pay its immediate debts—excluding the $130,000 the Phils owe the league—was out of the question "just now."

Champion Yuncker Sports Upset By Athletic Supplies Quintet

By WALLY DAVIS

GLOBE STEEL basketeers clinched second place in the City league standings last night, edging out a hard fought 45 to 40 victory over Westinghouse, as the loop closed the book for another season.

Athletic Supply turned in a big upset in the second tilt, knocking off the champion Yuncker Sports, 32 to 25.

Three buckets by Matt Hager in the final minutes put the game on ice for the Steelers after the Westies had come within a point of tying the count at 37-all.

Westinghouse moved ahead, 11 to 7, in the first frame with Vogel and Wade setting the pace. They were held to one basket from the floor in the next frame, however, as the Steelers slipped in 11 counters to take an 18-16 halftime advantage.

Twenty-seven points were scored in the third frame, the Westies getting 14 to Globe's 13. Ken Lockhart fired in four neat long shots in this spree to keep the Westies in the ball game.

Trailing 31-30 entering the final quarter, the Westies took the lead on Lockhart's side shot, but Doc Poston, former Madison high performer, scored for the Steelers, and they were in front to stay.

Hager caged 15 points for the Steelers, getting eight in the last period, while Lockhart had 12 for Westinghouse.

Paced by Bob Nikolaus, the Athletic Supplies built up an early lead against Yunckers and led throughout the contest.

They were in front 10-3 as the first period ended, but led only 18-14 at the half. Nikolaus, who scored 13 points to lead both teams, got nine of his team's tallies in the first two periods.

The Supplies outscored the Sports, 8 to 5, in the third, to hold a 26-19 lead entering the finale.

Dick Roberts scored nine points to lead Yunckers.

Louis Ordered to Report for Movie

NEW YORK—(UP)—Sgt. Joe Louis, the brand new pappy, has been ordered to report at Los Angeles Monday to play a role in the picture "This Is The Army," co-manager John Roxborough disclosed today.

Roxborough, phoning from Detroit, said he wasn't sure how long the picture assignment would last, but he figured on "several weeks." After that Louis has no idea where the army will send him.

Roxborough emphasized, however, "one thing is certain. Joe will not defend his title until the war is over."

THEATERS

War Drama.

The efforts of refugees from all parts of Europe trying to obtain visas, legal or otherwise, and the workings of the underground movement attempting to break the chains of despotism are pictured in "Casablanca," a romantic drama of the present World war showing at the Ohio. The picture closes a week's run Friday. Humphrey Bogart is starred in the picture as an American cafe owner in the French Moroccan seaport that figured so prominently in the news recently. Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid top the supporting cast which includes Claude Rains and Conrad Veidt.

Commando Thriller.

British Commandos expose a vicious group of spies operating in England in "The Gorilla Man," the Madison attraction. John Loder and Ruth Ford head the cast with Loder in the role of the Commando captain. Action takes place in a sanitarium where a group of Nazis carry on a series of gruesome activities. Brian Aherne and Loretta Young are teamed in the second picture, "A Night to Remember."

Shudder-Drama.

Lon Chaney is prominently featured in the shudder-drama, "The Mummy's Tomb," showing at the Ritz. The actor appears in the fearsome guise of an ancient Egyptian mummy kept alive a thousand years by a magic chemical brew. Laid in a New England countryside the picture concerns a series of unsolvable crimes. Dick Foran, John Hubbard and Elyse Knox are the featured players. Zane Grey's "Lone Star Ranger," the second attraction, has Shelia Ryan, John Kimbrough and William Farnum.

Murder Mystery.

"The London Blackout Murders," with John Abbott, Mary McLeod and Louis Borrell, is showing at the Park. Buck Jones' starring picture, "Dawn On the Great Divide," is the second attraction.

PLAN SUNDAY NIGHT PARTIES

USO Club To Begin Series At Y. M. C. A. Feb. 14.

To meet a request on the part of the navy cadets in training at Municipal Airport the USO club will launch a series of Sunday night parties beginning Feb. 14.

Plans for the series were made Tuesday night by the management committee of the USO in response to the growing need to furnish week-end entertainment to service men with leisure time on their hands.

The weekly Tuesday night parties will continue although the affair next week will be curtailed to some extent so that the cadets may be entertained at supper by the American Legion auxiliary.

LIBRARY WILL HONOR PILOT

Fremont Names Book Collection For Native Son Who Was Killed in Maine.

FREMONT —(AP)— A memorial aviation library will be established at Ross high school here in honor of Col. H. J. (Jack) Zimmerman, former TWA pilot and control officer of the North Atlantic Ferry Command, who was killed last Nov. 2 at Presque Isle, Maine.

Establishment of the library has been approved by Birchard Library trustees, according to William M. Haynes, chairman of the board. Founded by Transcontinental-Western Air, Inc., the memorial is being financed in part by contributions from TWA officials and employes, army officers and pilots from all over the country, Haynes said.

Formerly a student at Culver Military Academy and Dartmouth college, Col. Zimmerman was a veteran commercial pilot. He flew the first stratoliner from the west coast to the east and landed the first plane on New York's LaGuardia Field. He was considered one of the best "blind" fliers in the country and made more than 100 Atlantic crossings prior to his death.

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE HELP TO MAKE BOMBERS

Pastors, Wrestlers and Swim Champs Join in Task of Building Planes.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—It takes all kinds of people to make a world—and also a navy dive bomber.

Months before the war manpower commission handed down its "work or fight" decree the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker were deserting peacetime pursuits for jobs at the Curtiss-Wright warplane plant here.

Now manning machines at the huge plant which mushroomed from flat, barren countryside into a modern warplane factory in less than two years are lawyers, housewives, wrestlers, auto mechanics—and even a minister.

The latter is the Rev. Fenton C. Fish who resigned at Mayflower Congregational church in Columbus to become a personnel counsellor at Curtiss.

Rev. Fish formerly held pastorates at Bowling Green and Toledo. When the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor he tried to join the army chaplain corps, found he was overage so he took a job at the plane plant.

Another dive bomber builder, Frank Sexton, is working with the strength and agility which won for him the Pacific coast heavyweight wrestling crown.

Sexton modestly admits that he lost 'about 15 matches" in 1,500 bouts over a 10-year span.

Sexton works in the drop hammer department where his 228 pounds shape sheet metal parts for Helldivers and Seagulls.

Carl Froom who works in planning, probably has been vilified and praised more than any other man at the plant, according to the erratic course of five small marbles on an inclined table.

Froom is inventor of the 'whiffle machine' great-granddaddy of the pin-ball machine. Froom produced the first whiffle machine at his Youngstown plant which later grew into Automatic Industries Inc.

More at home in a plane plant are Ralph Hanson and his 18-year-old daughter Betty Mae. Hanson is the brother-in-law of America's ace of aces of World War I Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

No longer headlined but doing an even more important job in the experimental division is Jim Patterson ex-Ohio State university swimming star. Jim won the national collegiate high and low board diving titles in 1936-37 and was set for the Olympics when they were called off because of the war in 1940.

Boyd "Kid" McCoy is another whose name has been missing from the sports pages since he went to work in the Curtuss flight test division.

Boyd who borrowed the name "Kid" from the famous lightweight, won the state amateur boxing crown in 1938 and then repeated in 1940 after losing to Bill Bailey of Dayton in 1939.

William Spangler customer contact has more than 20 inventions to his credit but the two best known are an automatic machine for the manufacture of clay pigeons and a target trap which tosses pigeons into the air at the rate of 125 every six minutes.

Spangler began work on his device at Chillicothe shortly after he was discharged from the army at the end of World War I. He later moved to Circleville where he began manufacturing clay pigeons.

WARTIME BOOMS DENVER

DENVER—(U.P.)—Denver is being transformed into a booming metropolis with the constant influx of war workers. Latest census bureau figures reveal that Denver has almost 400,000 persons in the city area alone. That figure excludes the thousands of soldiers stationed at nearby army posts.

WOMAN JUDGE LIKE TEACHER

She Settles Arguments Between Adults as She Would Handle Children.

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Many American women have taken up men's work in these wartime days but Mrs. Marjorie McAtee of Clayton, Mo. can claim one of the most unusual jobs undertaken by a woman.

Besides teaching kindergarten and looking after her two young children, she is now the new police court judge of her community.

When Judge McAtee 32 and a brunette mounted the bench her first day in court she was scared "for a minute."

"My heart was beating a million," said the judge, "but I soon found out it wasn't so bad.

"It reminded me of teaching high school pupils and all I had to remember was that I had to be strict.

Mrs. McAtee, who taught in high school in Chicago before she married, was recently appointed to fill the unexpired term of her husband, Judge John J. McAtee, now a lieutenant in the U. S. navy. Since her appointment, he refers to Mrs. McAtee as "my judicial wife," and "her honor," but it's all in fun.

"Just act as if you were settling an argument between children when a case comes before you and use common sense," he advised.

Mrs. McAtee says that is just what she is doing.

Although Judge McAtee had never appeared in police court before—either as observer or offender—she has had 21 years of experience as an automobile driver.

As police court judge Judge McAtee presides mostly in cases involving traffic violations.

"My brothers called me 'Two-wheel Marge' in my younger days," said the judge because "I began driving at the age of 12 and always was a pretty fast driver but that doesn't mean I violated the traffic laws."

"Speeding isn't patriotic in these times of war," Mrs. McAtee continued. "As police judge, I intend to stand behind strict enforcement of the speed laws and all violations will be prosecuted."

INDIANS NAME M'ARTHUR BEST WARRIOR OF '42

General Replies He's Learned a Lot About War Tactics From Redskins.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has learned a lot from the fighting tactics of the Indians he cabled today to the Indian Confederation of America in acknowledgement of his selection as the "outstanding warrior of 1942."

Joseph Stalin was the 1941 selection of the confederation which includes representatives of the Mohawks, San Blas, Cherokee, Winnebago, Sioux, Pueblo, Chippewa, Algonquin, Narragansett, Sac and Fox and Pamunkey tribes.

In a cable to Chief Paul Horn the fighting general said:

"Please convey to the chiefs and members of the Indian Confederation of America my deep appreciation of the signal honor with which they have distinguished me. All my life I have been closely associated with the American Indian and from earliest childhood learned to know and admire his bravery and tenacity and his combat skill.

"As a warrior his fame is worldwide. Many successful methods of modern warfare are based on what he evolved centuries ago. Individually, he exemplified what the line fighter could do by adaptation to the characteristics of the particular countryside in which he fought.

"Collectively, his tactics, so brilliantly utilized by our first great commander, George Washington, again apply in basic principle to the vast jungle-covered reaches of the present war.

"To be selected, therefore, by Indians as the outstanding world warrior of 1942 is a tribute which would fill any soldier heart with pride."

A war bonnet is being prepared by squaws of the tribes for Gen. MacArthur and Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum commanding general of the eastern defense command and the first army has been designated to accept it in his behlaf in New York on Feb. 13. Secretary of War Stimson has advised the confederation that "the war department is appreciative of the high honor which you are paying General MacArthur."

SERVE MEALS AT 2 SCHOOLS

Getting practical experience in canteen procedure by helping prepare and serve noonday lunches to 1,800 Mansfield junior and senior high school pupils, a group of 31 women began a 30-hour volunteer service period yesterday.

The helpers are women who have finished a combined 40-hour Red Cross nutrition and canteen course and they will work at the call of Mrs. G. W. Hypes, canteen instructor and supervisor of school lunch rooms.

Four women were assigned to Mansfield Senior high school and two junior high schools. John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed today. They were Mrs. Donald Given, Mrs. E. O. Morton, Mrs L. J. Meeker, and Mrs. Richard Fensch.

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 34. DEDUCTIONS FOR CASUALTY LOSSES AND THEFTS

Losses arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty, or from theft, are allowable deductions in computing net income for federal income tax purposes. Thus, if a taxpayer's home is destroyed by fire or damaged by flood or storm, or his automobile is wrecked, or if his property is stolen, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. The amount of such loss, if incurred in connection with a trade or business, is entered in Schedule II to arrive at the net profit (or loss) shown in item 9 of the return; other losses are entered as item 15 of Deductions in return, Form 1040, and must be explained in Schedule C of the return form.

The intent of the law regarding deductions for casualties generally is to allow for losses caused by natural forces. Such losses may be either of a personal or a business nature. To be an allowable deduction, the loss may not arise from the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer. Damage sustained to one's car by collision or accident, for instance, is a deductible loss, unless the damage is due to a willful act or negligence on the part of the taxpayer. Faulty driving would not be classified as negligence, but driving while intoxicated would be so regarded.

Likewise, in the case of claims for loss of property by theft or burglary, it must be established that the property actually was stolen, and not merely mislaid or lost.

In the case of insured property, the amount of recovery through insurance must be taken into account in determining the amount of loss.

The amount of loss allowable in the case of property damaged or destroyed is frequently difficult of determination. A general rule is that the loss is measured by the difference in the value of the property immediately before and immediately after the casualty. The loss on a wrecked car would be the difference between its market value just before the accident and the salvage value after the accident. In the case of trees, or ornamental shrubbery, destroyed by a sleet or snow storm, the measure of the loss is the loss in the value of the property of which they were a part, that is, the reduction in the value of the property arising from the casualty. This may or may not be the same as the value of the particular trees or shrubs destroyed.

In determining the amount of loss, also, sentimental values are excluded, for the reason that such values are not susceptible to measurement. Losses claimed must, in general, be related to market value of the property affected by the casualty. Losses claimed for the destruction, damage, or theft of family portraits, heirlooms, or keepsakes, must be based upon loss of intrinsic value apart from the sentimental value.

A further rule regarding deductions for losses from casualties and thefts is that such losses are deductible only in the year in which they are sustained, even though they may not be discovered until a later year.

A deduction for loss from casualty or theft may be allowed only to the owner of the property with respect to which the loss is sustained.

ARMY MEN MOVE UP

CHANUTE FIELD, Ill. (INS)—Promotion of 240 enlisted men, personnel of the Army Air Force Technical Training Command school here, was recently announced. Twenty-five men achieved the grade of staff sergeant, 137 were made sergeants, and 78 attained the grade of corporal.

BLAMES SWEATER GIRLS

COLMA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Movie czar Will Hayes has a keen supporter in his "anti-sweater girl" drive in the proprietor of the Globe Tavern here. Two girls, a blond and brunet, whom he described to the police as being "perfect sweater girl types" relieved him of $75 at the point of revolvers.

UPWARD SWING CONTINUED ON STOCK MARKET

Bank Clearings Drop Under Last Week's Record But Exceed Year Ago.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Prices generally continued to edge upward in today's stock market transactions.

At a fairly active opening gainers of fractions included American Telephone, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Johns-Manville, Western Union, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, Public Service of N. J., and Standard Oil of California.

In the hunt for trend clues notice was taken of the Dun & Bradstreet compilation disclosing bank clearings in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday topped the comparable period last year by 26.4 per cent but were 19-1 per cent under the preceding week's 12-year record mark.

Studied also was the survey of the New York Federal Reserve bank indicating commercial paper outstanding in the United States declined $9,000,000 in January to $220,400,000.

MARKETS TO CLOSE

All major security and commodity markets in the United States will be closed tomorrow, Feb. 12, for Lincoln's birthday. Livestock markets and a few minor commodity marts will operate as usual.

intruder planes lurked over Sicily and Tunisia, waiting for Axis planes to land.

Fighter-bombers from Malta blasted railway targets in Southern Sicily, and heavy bombers bombed shipping in Palermo harbor during the day yesterday.

Probably the bombers that attacked Palermo harbor were American flying fortresses or liberators.

Palermo harbor had just been raided Monday night.

From all operations Tuesday night and yesterday, all Allied planes returned.

The Germans said American forces had made another effort to capture strategic Faid pass, in Tunisia.

A German trans-ocean agency dispatch, broadcast by radio Berlin, said the Americans had tried to take Faid pass, which controls the road to Sfax, on the coast, Tuesday. The dispatch claimed that the Americans were thrown back by a counter-attack.

Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, British commander-in-chief in the middle east, said in Cairo yesterday that the enemy had been cleared out of Tripolitania, and the time was imminent when warfare in Africa would become one big battle.

Allies Smash Axis Shipping of Tunisia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(AP)— Allied bombers and fighters have sunk one small Axis ship and left another sinking in a new sea sweep off the Tunisian coast, an Allied communique announced today.

(A Reuters dispatch to London said the vessels were troop ships moving Axis forces from Sicily to Tunisia and both were sent to the bottom. Pilots were quoted as saying they believed that each carried about 250 fully-equipped men.)

U. S. Troops Take Over For French

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—Some French troops have been withdrawn from action on the Tunisian front for reequipment and training with American arms, it was officially announced today.

United States forces have been taking over large sections of the French lines in central and southern Tunisia while the British first army in the north also extended its positions in order to relieve the tired and poorly-armed French.

NAMES ARNOLD

FDR Appoints 'Trust-Buster' to Rutledge Post.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be an associate justice of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

Arnold, on confirmation by the senate, would take the place vacated by Wiley B. Rutledge, who has just been approved by the senate for membership on the supreme court.

URGES SELF-GOVERNMENT

TOLEDO —(AP)— Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts declared at a Lucas county Republican club Lincoln dinner last night that Americans wanted help from government to "help themselves." He urged that self-government be restored to political subdivisions after the war.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Sentence Suspended — Arrested on charges of assault and battery, Kerneth Purdy, 136 Sycamore street, received a suspended 15-day jail sentence from Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler yesterday. The charges were preferred by his wife, Helen.

Use Stamp Found — Albert Brumenschenkel, 341 West Sixth street, reported to the police department today that he had found an auto use tax stamp near Willow street. The stamp bore the serial number of 36309617.

Sentence Revoked—Dale Carr, 289 East First street, was taken to the county jail yesterday when Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler revoked a six-months jail sentence imposed on a non-support charge.

Cases Continued—Cases of two Mansfield boys, aged 13 and 15, charged with petty thievery, was continued by Judge Stuart Cramer in juvenile court yesterday pending further investigation. The boys were returned to the detention home where they have been held for the past few days.

Announce Birth—Word has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Owens, Wichita, Kan. Mrs. Owens, the former Marie Robinson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson of Mansfield.

'DUD' EXPLODES

Boy Injured in Anti-Tank Shell Blast in Ohio.

ST. PARIS— (INS) —Military authorities today were investigating the explosion of a 37 m.m. anti-tank shell, which gave St. Paris a first hand taste of war and put Carl McCain, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCain in the hospital.

Young McCain, along with Doris Rickard, 22 and William Raines, 12, were examining the shell when it fell to the sidewalk and exploded. McCain's leg was fractured in the blast and splinters of metal were showered over the vicinity, shattering many windows.

The projective, believed a dud, had been sent to young Raines by a soldier relative in an Indiana army camp.

FOOD SELLERS MUST REPORT

OPA Tells Dealers to Record Volume of March Business.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—Birkett L. Williams, regional OPA administrator, announced today that retailers and wholesalers of food, rationed recently under the government's new point system, will be required to report amount of business done during the period of March 1 to 31 and to report inventories as of March 31.

He said that it will not be necessary to make an inventory report on March 1.

DINNER HONORS . POSTAL WORKERS

Postoffice Employes To Entertain Two Retiring From Service.

Mansfield postal employes will hold a recognition dinner Saturday at 6:30 p. m. at the American Legion home for two fellow workers who are retiring from active duty.

The party will honor Harry Zellner, superintendent of mails for a number of years, and Frank Divelbiss, a rural carrier.

A program will follow the dinner. Postoffice clerks and carriers will attend.

NEWSMEN MEET

Confer At Washington On War Problems of Newspapers.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The men behind the front pages of some 200 of the nation's daily newspapers go behind the scenes in Washington today to intensify press participation in the war effort and seek answers to the industry's mounting problems.

Directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors meet tonight with such questions as the newsprint shortage, new censorship regulations, the 48-hour week order and the manpower situation foremost in their minds.

IDENTIFY FIVE CRASH VICTIMS

Naval Authorities Reveal Names Of Men Who Fell In Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—The names of five navy fliers killed late Tuesday when their twin-motored bomber crashed in San Francisco bay and burned a short time after taking off from the Alameda air base on a test flight were announced today by the 12th naval district.

The four who were found were identified as Henry Weeks, 31, Oakland, Cal., radio mechanic; Ensign George Schulte, St. Louis, Mo., co-pilot; John Welch, jr., Sparta, Ill., aviation metalsmith, and Edward L. Summers, Rusk, Tex., aviation radioman.

Still unfound was the body of Ensign Thomas F. Ewing, Anacortes, Wash, pilot.

BUYING MULES

Farmers Turn to Jenny for Aid in Machinery Crisis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(AP)— The mule business, brother, is looking up—and that's no horseplay.

Farmers, experiencing difficulties in obtaining farm machinery, are flocking to Memphis, the world's largest mule market, for mule power as they face plowing time. One company estimated it was selling approximately 2,500 mules a week.

OHIO'S HIGHWAY COSTS INCREASE UNDER BRICKER

Jump $11,000,000, or 38 Per Cent During Period Between 1938 and 1941.

times as high. That indicates that more men worked but the total amount of improvements was less.

Perhaps these tables will permit easier comparison. Remember that 1937 and 1938 figures represent the Davey administration, while those that follow are during Bricker's reign.

First personal service in the highway department:

1937	$ 928,691
1938	2,710,808
1939	2,828,838
1940	3,377,552
1941	3,661,236

Here are comparative figures over the same period of time on additions and betterments to the state highway system:

1937	$10,333,277
1938	6,893,190
1939	11,358,674
1940	11,075,221
1941	9,977,093

There are many other departments that come under the jurisdiction of the highway department, such as the highway patrol, the bureau of motor vehicles and numerous others. They all cost money to operate and boost the grand total of the highway department costs.

In the following table are shown the total cost of operating the highway department over a five-year period:

1937	$30,899,460
1938	31,663,120
1939	36,114,860
1940	43,836,299
1941	42,733,477

Thus, between 1937 and 1941, total highway department costs climbed approximately $12,000,000 and between 1938 and 1941 about $11,000,000 or about 38 per cent.

But between Davey's lowest year, which was 1937, and Bricker's highest, 1940, the difference is $13,000,000 or about 43 per cent.

There are other striking comparisons in the costs of operating the state government now and under Davey.

In the report of the municipal research bureau, there is a heading entitled "Governor's Office and Mansion." There are two subheadings entitled "personal service" and "maintenance."

Under Davey, personal service—secretaries and aides, etc.—cost $41,575 in 1937. In 1941 under Bricker, personal service cost $50,517.

Maintenance of the mansion and office, however, declined under Bricker. For in 1937 maintenance charged against Davey, for office and mansion, was $21,670, while in 1941 under Bricker the charge was only $15,672, and the lowest Bricker figure was $13,646 in 1940.

But the total cost under Bricker was still higher than under Davey. The figures show $63,246 under Davey in 1937, and $68,712 under Bricker in 1941.

There might not be a great deal of significance in these figures—in view of constantly increasing cost of everything—if the constant cry of the Bricker administration had not been "economy" and "conservatism."

If those words hadn't been overworked, perhaps the budget request of the administration for 1943-44—calling for the largest expenditure in the history of the state—might not have been quite as surprising to Mr. Average Citizen as it now has become.

Mr. Average Citizen, it seems, has difficulty in reconciling "conservatism" and "economy" with record-breaking expenditures.

Mr. Average Citizen, with even a rudimentary knowledge of arithmetic, wonders why—in war time—a state budget request should be for $366,000,000 when in 1937, with generally lower costs, the total spent by the state was only $294,356,466.

In the last gubernatorial campaign, the Democrats, backing John McSweeney of Wooster, sought to prove that the Bricker administration was not economical, and that its vaunted conservatism had not effected a saving for the state—but had only built up surplus that now has reached an admitted $45,000,000 and more.

Strenuous denials on the part of the administration—Gov. Bricker once estimated that the state would have a surplus of less than $45,000 that eventually turned out to be more than $19,000,000—have been completely discredited.

But that is another story.

Tomorrow—The last of the series.

joint senate and house military committees.

Senator Chandler (D-Ky.) and Chairman May (D-Ky.), of the house military committee apparently reflected the trend of congressional sentiment with the declaration that as far as they were concerned the army could have "all the men it thinks it needs" to win the war.

Selective service figures showed 1,090,000 single men in the 18-37 age group—enough to meet one-fourth of the armed services' requirements this year if all are physically fit—hold deferments on occupational grounds.

Of this number, 570,000 have jobs in war industries and the rest are spread on farms and in essential civilian industries.

On another manpower front, the war manpower commission disclosed that the chief purpose of the new 48-hour work week was to get more men into war industry and that some exceptions might be made for businesses where application of the order would not aid in reaching the goal.

Clarifying the presidential decree, which was made immediately effective in 32 areas where labor is scarce, the WMC also reported overtime pay need not be granted to many workers whose work week will be increased from 40 to 48 hours. These are workers, such as domestic servants, who are not covered by the wage and hour law or labor contracts.

Meanwhile, Rep. Curley (D-Mass.) announced he would ask Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of China's generalissimo, be invited to present China's lend-lease requirements to the house foreign affairs committee, now holding hearings on proposals to extend the reciprocal aid act another year. Curley has introduced legislation to give China 10 per cent of all lend-lease aid.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PROMISES BIG ALLIED DRIVE DURING YEAR

Churchill Says Half Million Troops at Eisenhower Command in Africa.

eralissimo Chiang Kai-Shek who expressed satisfaction at the plans for giving China additional help.

5. Britain has offered to embody into a "special treaty" her pledge to help carry the war against Japan on to unconditional surrender, but had President Roosevelt's answer that "the word of Britain was quite enough for him."

Churchill's speech emphasized that the Allies were preparing to strike.

He declared the United Nations had "a complete plan of action" to be carried out "during the next nine months."

Churchill, received with loud cheers, said "the dominating aim which we set before ourselves in the conference at Casablanca was to engage the enemy's forces on land, sea and in the air on the largest possible scale and at the earliest possible moment."

"We have to make the enemy burn and bleed in every way that is physically and reasonably possible, in the same way as he is being made to burn and bleed along the vast Russian front from the White sea to the Black sea," Churchill declared.

He said Britain and the United States—formerly peaceful countries—now are "warrior nations walking in the fear of the Lord, very heavily armed and with an increasingly clear view of their salvation."

Of the war against U-boats, he said: "Progress is being made. We are holding our own and more than holding our own."

From his first words, there was an optimistic ring in the prime minister's tones.

"In the last six months," he asserted, "Anglo-American and important Canadian new building (of ships) exceeded all the losses of the United Nations by over one and a quarter million tons."

"That is to say," he added, "our joint fleet is one and a quarter million tons bigger today than it was six months ago."

Churchill said he intended to leave the enemy guessing at the eal figures" in the U-boat warare—"to let him be the victim of is own lies."

It was recalled that Churchill redited the Nazis lack of knowldge of Allied shipping for the ase with which the Allies occuied French North Africa.

"The great American flow of hip building is leaping up month y month, and losses in the last wo months are the lowest for ver a year," the prime minister eclared.

"We have had hardly any losses our heavily escorted troop conoys, and out of about three milon souls who have been moved nder protection of the British avy only 1,348 have been killed r drowned, including the missg."

"The rate of killing of U-boats as steadily improved," he said. From January to October, 1942, iclusive, a period of ten months, ne rate of sinkings certain and robable was the best we have ven so far in this war.

"But from November to the resent date, a period of three onths, the rate has improved ore than half as much again."

At the same time, Churchill id, "the destructive power of ie U-boat has undergone steady minution. In the first year of ie war the operational U-boat 'counted for an average of 19 ips; in the second year, 12; and the third, seven and a half."

Churchill predicted that "we iall be definitely better off as far shipping is concerned at the id of 1943 than now."

He gave no specific figures, and spite this optimistic picture of e U-boat warfare he warned:

"The losses we suffer at sea e very heavy and they hamper and delay our operations and us prolong the war."

Churchill declared, however, at the enemy "cannot avert" defat, as he hopes, by undersea arfare.

Of the meeting Jan. 14 to 24 th Roosevelt, Churchill said:

"Our inflexible insistence on nconditional surrender does not ean that we shall stain our ictorious arms by wrong and uel treatment of the whole opulation, but justice must be one, and justice must be stern nd implacable.

"No vestige of Nazi or Fascist wer, no vestige of the Japanese r plotting machine will be left us when the work is done, as certainly will be."

The prime minister said the ited Nations' plans for action ring the next nine months comse "apportionment of forces as ll as their direction and ight. . . ."

He added that before the end that nine months he planned to et Mr. Roosevelt again.

"For good or ill," he said, "we ow exactly what it is we wish do.

"We have the united, agreed adce of our experts behind it, and re is nothing now to be done to work out these schemes in ail and put them into operan."

Churchill disclosed that Mr. osevelt had been willing to go far east as Khartoum, Egypt, order that a tripartite conferce might be held with Premier lin in attendance.

ut Churchill added that Stalin ld not leave his post, even for ingle day.

He was 20 years old, named Chantier De La Jeunesse, and belonged to the Chantier De Jeunesse, a French patriotic organization whose members became embittered when the Allies collaborated with Darlan, a former supporter of the Vichy regime. The youth was executed the morning following Darlan's death.

Mansfield Marine Home After Dodging Bullets In Solomons

he didn't have time to pack it. He brought along the cigarets and some paper money, however. The cigarets, packed tightly in small packs, don't smell like American cigarets and they don't taste like them, either, Charles said.

Some of the Japanese food is not so bad, especially when there's no other kind to be had, he found. The marines ate captured Japanese provisions for the first five or six weeks after they arrived in the Solomons because their own food supplies hadn't arrived, he related.

"It wasn't bad," he added, especially the smoked fish which I thinkzwas salmon." The Americans found some Japanese beer which tasted better than the kind they used to get back home, Charles said.

The Japs are notoriously poor marksmen and when they hit their mark it's more luck than accuracy, the Mansfielder said.

"Most of the bombings and shellings were hit-and-miss attacks with the Japs stationed too far away to be seen, but we knew they were around when the shells began dropping around us," he continued. "Once they hit an ammunition dump about 20 feet away, and another time a charge hit right back of our dugout.

"We soon learned to expect an attack as soon as the admiral flew in for inspection, and we weren't disappointed, either. Asked if the admiral was still in good health, he replied 'Oh, sure.'

"One Pistol Pete, which is our name for a six-inch mounted naval gun, hit a half track (similar to a tank) in our outfit on another occasion before we eliminated him. He was just firing in all directions and finally got in a lucky shot."

About the only time Charles really got close to a sizeable Jap attacking unit was when a landing party started up Red beach on Guadalcanal and the marines mowed them down with artillery fire, he related. The navy department announced this week that the Japs had withdrawn from Guadalcanal.

"We took 30 prisoners and the dead Japs were piled seven deep in some places on the beach," he said.

So they can't be spotted easily by the enemy, American officers wear no insignia while in battle, enlisted men are not required to salute superiors, and there's no routine training as in camp.

In the heat of the Solomons, the men wear any clothing they can find and not too much of it, Charles said. The climate is so hot that the fighting man's body temperature is around 102 degrees, he added.

The marines lived in tents with underground bomb shelters scattered over the island. Shelters were covered with cocoanut logs, he explained.

Mail deliveries to the Solomons were made about twice a month and mail day was a big event in the lives of the men on the islands. It took packages a long time to arrive from the United States and when they arrived they were usually pretty battered.

The paymaster flew in twice from New Zealand, giving the men their money in small amounts, Charles said.

Charles enlisted in the marines three years ago. He was graduated from Senior high school in 1934.

When his furlough is up, he will go back willingly to "help out where I am most needed," he said.

Charles told calmly of his experiences, commenting that "After four months of it, the grim business becomes more or less routine."

Fail To Answer 'Goering Raid'

LONDON —(AP)— Although it was fairly common knowledge that Prime Minister Churchill would make his war review today, no planes of German Air Marshal Goering appeared to avenge the Royal Air force's interruption of Goering's speech in Berlin Jan. 30.

British Mosquito bombers raided Berlin when Goering spoke on the 10th anniversary of Hitler's rise to power. The raid forced Goering to delay his speech an hour.

Stimson Warns U. S. To Expect Losses

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The nation should get set for heavy American casualties, "perhaps in the very near future," Secretary of War Stimson said today in a discussion of developing plans for driving the Axis from Africa.

The opposing armies in Tunisia are moving into position, he told a press conference, and heavy fighting is in prospect. This country is just beginning to participate in major offensive warfare, he said in his mention of casualties.

Reviewing the war's progress, and finding "a budget of good news" for the United Nations in the last week, the war secretary noted that advanced elements of the British 8th army already had crossed the Tunisian border in pursuit of the German Africa corps while in western Tunisia British, American and French troops were consolidating their positions.

On other fronts, Stimson reported these developments:

The Russian victories are increasing in magnitude, with the German forces in the Caucasus facing destruction or a perilous evacuation.

Victory over the Japanese on Guadalcanal was hastened by an amphibian operation in which army forces moved by boat around the island under naval escort, landing near the northwest tip and marching overland to flank the enemy, who was caught on a narrow strip of beach about 15 miles long.

Stimson said Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of all army forces under Admiral William F. Halsey in the South Pacific, reported during the last two weeks of January the two army divisions on Guadalcanal killed 4,000 Japanese and took 105 prisoners, while losing only 180 killed, 398 wounded, and five missing.

plant program for manpower utilization based on the studies just outlined.

"1. Suggesting other war manpower commission services available to you such as placement and training, and establishing contacts for you.

"As their tools for rendering this service they have occupational analyses, worker analyses, manning tables, replacement schedules and common sense."

McNutt emphasized that the "utilization consultants" would concern themselves with answering one question: "How effectively are the people on the job performing with the tools and equipment at hand under the processes of operation at their disposal?"

Urge All Employers Use 48-Hour Week

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— War manpower commission officials today are advising employers throughout the country to adopt a 48-hour work week as one official said that it might be made mandatory in 102 more areas within six months.

WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt already has designated 32 labor shortage areas where the new 48-hour work week is mandatory.

William Haber, chief of WMC's planning division, told the American Management association in Chicago last night that the manpower situation is serious in 102 other areas and that on the basis of war contracts let, all of those areas are expected to have acute labor shortages by mid-summer. He did not name them.

"Other areas should go on a 48-hour week, if by doing so they can reduce their labor requirements and not have to discharge workers now on their payrolls. Most war plants in all areas are expanding their workweek. . . Non-war plants would be well advised to plan similar action in view of the drain of their workers into the armed forces, and into war industries," Haber said.

McNutt and his subordinates emphasized their hope that the policy could be made to work on a voluntary basis. "But if that cannot be done," he said in Chicago, "I will go before congress and so state."

Reports Shortage Of Pretty Girls In Texas City

DALLAS, Tex. —(INS)— It doesn't seem possible, but apparently there's a shortage of pretty girls in Dallas.

Any male reasonably free from prejudice, including thousands of visitors from other states, usually concedes that Texas has the prettiest girls in the world.

But Bob Bourdene, manager of the Dallas Manufacturers' and Wholesalers' association, is complaining that he can't get models for the annual Dallas spring market season. Two years ago they swarmed in by the hundreds, Bourdene recalls. But now — "They're all working in defense plants."

As an added lure to prospective models in the season's newest creations, he recalls that Linda (nee Monetta) Darnel got her start in the movies by modeling for his association. If that won't get them, Bourdene gives up.

have announced recapture of Akhtari, 110 miles southwest of Rostov and 80 miles northwest of Krasnodar, with which it was connected by a railroad that the Germans might have used in an attempt to escape by way of the Taman peninsula.

"The coast of the Sea of Azov from the mouth of the River Don to Akhtari has been completely cleared of the enemy," the early communique said today.

Encirclement of Rostov continued with a Red army unit slashing across the Moscow-Rostov railway line below Novocherkassk, and cutting communications between the two cities, reports from the front line indicated.

The Soviet troops continued their attempts to expand their wedge southward in the Kramatorsk area, between Kharkov and Rostov, in the face of German tank and infantry counterattacks. The early war bulletin said that five more towns were taken.

(A Red army tank sped full tilt into a German infantry column south of Kursk and churned more than a company to death with its caterpillar tracks, the Russian midday communique as recorded by the Soviet London radio Monitor said.)

North of Kursk, the Russians widened their circle of conquest with the capture of more towns and enemy equipment, it was reported, in a campaign that guarded the flanks of the Kharkov encirclement and pointed a Russian menace toward Orel and other German bases northwest of Kursk and Belgorod.

(A Berlin broadcast blamed heavy snowfalls from Orel to the Donets basin for slowing up the German defenses and for permitting the Russians to slip through their lines.)

FDR WILL MAKE TWO ADDRESSES

Scheduled to Broadcast On Lincoln, Washington Birthdays.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The White House announced today that President Roosevelt will make two radio addresses this month—one tomorrow night on Lincoln's birthday and one on Feb. 22, George Washington's birthday.

Mr. Roosevelt will go on the air tomorrow night at 9:30 p. m. (EWT), speaking over all networks. He probably will review his recent Casablanca conferences with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and discuss latest developments on the home front.

On Feb. 22, Mr. Roosevelt will address George Washington birthday dinners which will be held throughout the country under auspices of the Democratic party.

Yet Of The Millions Who Rely Upon Bread For Up To 35% Of Their Daily Energy—3 Out Of 4 Fail To Get A Good Diet, U. S. Officials Say. Thus, Can Fail To Get Enough Vitamin B_1

New Wonder Bread Thrills Thousands Everywhere Because:
(1) Contains Vitamin B_1 (2) Slo-Baked For Lasting Freshness
(3) Tastes Better (4) Proves Easier-To-Slice

WHAT everybody knows is that millions of people rely upon bread for up to 35% of their daily energy.

But what you may not know is that you must have Vitamin B_1 to help transform the bread you eat into the energy you need.

Science today proves conclusively that it takes Vitamin B_1 to unlock bread's hidden energy.

Now—according to U. S. Government Health Officials, 3 out of 4 people fail to get a good diet; thus can fail to get enough Vitamin B_1 naturally.

This does not mean that you lack Vitamin B_1 so badly the bread you eat does you no good. But it does mean that your body cannot properly transform bread into the energy you must have these days unless you get sufficient Vitamin B_1.

A New Kind Of Bread

Now, wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B_1 into wheat. But—in making bread whiter—man took it out.

Then Theodore Earle patented a way to retain more natural vitamins and minerals in flour.

And mass production by American industry made possible further additions of the Vitamin B_1 needed in the bread. A bread now better for flavor and better for health than before.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it; fresh when you eat it.

Because it is slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer it stays fresh on the table and in the lunch box.

In addition, Wonder's slo-baking method gives you bread with a richer flavor now.

And—a firmer, tenderer texture. You'll find it easy to slice—and it leaves no crumbs.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1943.

Nations, like individuals, have to learn that crime doesn't pay.

Instead of expressing surprise, experienced weather observers are of the opinion that February is behaving very much like February.

Think carefully—how much coffee did you have on hand November 28, 1942? You'll be asked that question when you apply for your No. 2 ration book—so be prepared to answer it.

More Hours of Work Needed To Win

CONCLUSION has finally been reached by administrative officials that something more than a 40-hour civilian work week will be necessary in winning the war, and that further wage increases and price advances must be severely restricted in order to avoid disastrous inflation.

President Roosevelt's order establishing a minimum wartime work week of 48 hours, with overtime pay for the period in excess of 40 hours, can scarcely be interpreted as a drastic measure, nor does the edict of James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, to the effect that there must be no further increases in wages beyond the Little Steel formula, "except to rectify plainly substandard wages," appear to impose any hardship that might not be expected as a restraint made necessary in acting for the public welfare instead of showing preference for special groups.

While this order is not yet made generally applicable, intent to do so is seen in the president's statement that, "For the duration of the war, no plant, factory, or other place of employment, shall be deemed to be making the most effective utilization of its manpower if the minimum work week therein is less than 48 hours."

Between now and March 31 is the period allowed for readjustments in employment to meet the 48-hour requirements in prescribed areas where labor shortages already exist, although no further recruiting of labor for concerns not operating 48 hours a week will be permitted.

This presidential order, coupled with simultaneous statements by War Manpower Commissioner McNutt and Economic Stabilization Director Byrnes, serves to clarify government intent in matters pertaining to civilian working hours, wage and price stabilization, and comes at a time when farm bloc pressure for higher prices, and demands of bituminous coal miners for wage increases in disregard of the Little Steel formula, seemed likely to wreak havoc with anti-inflation efforts.

The outcome may be of greater importance than is now realized.

Third of a Century of Scouting

THIS WEEK marks the thirty-third anniversary of the introduction of Boy Scouting in America, and a brilliant record of accomplishment stands to the credit of this organization during its third of a century of active service.

Mansfield has been fortunate in the extent of its participation in Boy Scout work, not only in necessary financial support but also in the fine character of leadership and broad scope of Scout training among boys in this city and surrounding area.

In a message to Scouts on this anniversary occasion President Roosevelt expressed hope that everyone connected with scouting, boys and men, see to it that activities are maintained at full strength and effectiveness, as a practical contribution to the war effort.

The president said: "The leaders of our armed forces in training camps and on the battle fronts have emphasized the value of Scout training in developing knowledge and skill, as well as courage, self-reliance, resourcefulness and initiative, which are proving to be so essential in our determination to win this war."

The Boy Scout slogan for 1943 is "Toughen Up, Buckle Down, Carry on to Victory," and there should be full cooperation by interested and capable adult leaders in making this slogan effective in this country.

Teachers Strike for More Pay

ODDITY in the news is the report of a strike of school teachers in Rankin, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh.

It was a "sitdown strike," according to the Associated Press report, brought on by the school board's rejection of demands for a $250-a-year salary increase, or bonus, "to meet the increased cost of living."

Rankin is a city of 7,500 population. The 1,500 pupils went to school as usual—and the teachers were also there . . . but they didn't "teach"—they merely killed time, and passed out sheets containing a typewritten explanation of their wage demands.

It was announced by an attorney, as spokesman for the teachers, that "they will appear in their classrooms as usual, but will not teach . . . " So the pupils were sent home, with instructions to report twice daily "until the strike is settled."

So, it appears, such a thing CAN happen, ridiculous as it may seem.

Again, 'What's In a Name?'

TOO MUCH attention was given the incident of an ignorant New Yorker who chose the name, "Adolf Hitler," for his new-born son, and who attained national notoriety as a result.

It appears that after the information was disclosed by registration of the offensive name at the bureau of vital statistics, and publicized on the old theory that "it's news when a man bites a dog," the parents were deluged with letters threatening dire things unless the child's name was changed.

So the change was made—and to what, do you suppose? Why, to "Theodore Roosevelt"—because, as the father explained, he didn't want it confused with "those Democrat Roosevelt."

Which clears up nothing—except to strengthen belief that there is still a wide-open field for education and home missionary work in this country.

In the present world series it appears that Joe Stalin's team may soon give Adolf Hitler's boys a chance to show what they can do on their home grounds.

Strange as it may seem, the man who lacks will power usually marries it.

Caution Advised In Estimating Reserve Power of Nazi Armies

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

SIGNS point increasingly to a general German retreat on the south-central and southern Russian front as the Red army offensive rolls on against strong point after strong point.

The capture of such heavily-defended points as Kursk and Belgorod might seem to indicate that the German army is crumbling but it would be unwise to draw such a conclusion. The comparative ease with which those places were taken suggests instead that the Germans are making a considered withdrawal and might even fall back to the line of the Dnieper to organize for a comeback in the spring.

By such a move the Germans would shorten their own communication lines and lengthen those of the Russians. Also, when the thaws come, the Russian offensive is bound to be slowed.

Fresh forces being mobilized in Germany and subjugated countries should be ready for action by that time. Having failed in his summer objectives.

Hitler has not a great deal to lose in sacrificing unprofitable territory, although farther to the south it will be a bitter pill to swallow if he has to abandon the industrial Donets basin and the agricultural Ukraine.

The latter he may try to hold, because spring comes earlier there and the thaws may start within six week. Whatever happens, it is likely to be entirely a German defensive and holding operation, since there appears no chance that the Germans can resume the initiative anywhere on the front in the present phase of operations.

In the late spring and summer, however, the Germans probably will make another and final bid for victory. Not to do so would be an admission of eventual defeat.

In addition to the new levies he is raising, Hitler has reserves which can be thrown into the ultimate effort. According to a British military commentator, there is no sign yet of Germany having employed troops from its general reserve in this battle.

THE Germans, in his view, are likely to try to hold the Russians with the men they already have in the forward area, for if they are forced to employ their reserves now, they will have little strength left for operations in the spring.

It is nevertheless unlikely that the Germans will be any stronger, if as strong, next spring as they were last year, when they drove to Stalingrad and half-way to the main caucasus oil fields.

This winter campaign has cost them dearly in men and equipment. Their heavy losses in the Stalingrad area were only part of the picture.

Another army which may total 100,000 men is penned in along the sea of Azov, with its escape problematical. The army in the lower curve of the Donets river is in a precarious position, threatened from the east and north. If the Russians can slice down from the north and reach the Sea of Azov, it will be cut off and in much the same position as the army at Stalingrad.

Advertising In War.

A report that food manufacturers have decided to go the whole way in using the power of advertising to help consumers understand substitutes and shortages is most reassuring. Not every important problem of wartime has had the benefit of well planned advertising.

Advertising can be applied as effectually to the problems of wartime as to the problems of peacetime. In each case the primary objective is the same to inform the public. In peacetime, of course, the result is a wider distribution of goods, the indispensable condition of mass production. In wartime the sought-for result may be a narrower distribution; advertising is being used freely to explain to the public why it cannot obtain certain kinds of merchandise.

It is difficult to conceive of a more direct application of advertising benefits than that awaiting the food industry. — Canton Repository.

Senator's Home In National Park Presents Puzzling Complications

—By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Interior Ickes has a U. S. senator squatting on government land and doesn't quite know what to do about him. The squatter is Montana's Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who has a house on Lake MacDonald in the Glacier National park.

The house was acquired before it was against the law for a member of congress to own a house at Lake MacDonald. That was in 1916 when Wheeler was U. S. district attorney in Montana and when part of the Lake MacDonald area was under the Forestry Service.

Later Wheeler was elected to the senate, and all of the Lake MacDonald area was made part of Glacier National Park. The year after Wheeler's election, 1924, he himself raised the point that he could not legally sign a permit to keep his house in the national park. This is based upon Title 41 Section 21 of the U. S. Code which prohibits a contract with the United States by which a member of congress would share or profit.

Wheeler, however, was allowed to retain his house in the national park without signing a permit. He was a squatter on government sufferance. This continued for 17 years until September, 1941, when the Wheeler cottage was damaged by fire and he asked permission to rebuild.

PEARSON

The senator took the matter up with the then Undersecretary of the Interior Jack Dempsey, in charge of national parks, who authorized the remodelling job, and since it was illegal for Wheeler to sign a remodelling permit, Dempsey suggested that it might be signed by Mrs. Wheeler.

Accordingly Mrs. Wheeler on Oct. 8 last year made an oral request for such a permit. However, Assistant Secretary of Interior Burlew ruled that it would be contrary to law for any member of the senator's family to sign a permit. No one knows what the next move will be, whether Wheeler will continue to keep his summer place, and if so, how he can rebuild it without a permit.

Somervell's Pentagon.

LT. GEN. B. B. SOMERVELL, efficient chief of the Services of Supply, accompanied President Roosevelt to Casablanca. While there, he peppered his subordinates in Washington with cables ordering this, that and the other thing to reinforce Gen. Eisenhower's army.

Gen. Somervell has become famous for building army camps, jacking up the Quartermaster Corps, putting new life in the Ordnance Department. But probably his greatest pride and joy is the Pentagon building, largest office building in the world, where people who have worked there weeks still get lost, where legend has it that a Western Union messenger boy spent so long in its labyrinth that he came out a lieutenant colonel.

So after Gen. Somervell had sent reams of cables ordering all sorts of supplies, his weary chief of staff, Maj. Gen. W. D. Styer, cabled him:

"Why not ship Pentagon?"

Money-Changers.

WHILE Roosevelt was in Casablanca it looks as if some of the money-changers he promised to drive out had crept back into the temple.

The Erie Railroad and Morgan, Stanley company, offshoot of J. P. Morgan, have just put across a neat bond deal without benefit of competitive bidding. Lack of competitive bidding was the scourge of the old Coolidge bull market days.

Here is what happened. The Erie Railroad, flush with hauling war orders, went to Jesse Jones' and asked to buy in $14,000,000 of its 4 per cent bonds held by the RFC, callable at $105. Jesse obliged, letting the Erie have its bonds for $103⅝, which incidentally netted the RFC a nice profit of $503,000.

The RFC was under the impression that the Erie was retiring its bonds out of war earnings. But then the railroad turned around and borrowed $14,000,000 at 3½ per cent from the Morgan crowd, without letting other bankers bid. Erie is receiving only 96 cents on the dollar from the Morgan group, which means a juicy profit for the bankers.

Meanwhile the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, a part owner of Erie common stock, claims that the bond deal means an increased annual interest payment of $40,600. And Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland claims that mid-Western bankers were not given a chance to bid, that the transaction was bottled up in Wall Street.

Finally the Interstate Commerce commission, which has final authority, has called a hearing and there are even rumblings that Jesse Jones might reverse himself and call off the original bond sale to Erie.

A Farmer's Diary

Balance of Nature

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LONG weeks of snow have fertilized the crops, and protected wheat and clover from below zero gales and fluctuating freezes and thaws. This was fine for wheat and clover—fine too, for a thrifty progeny of field mice.

Up along my neighbor's hill, where a crop of heavy timothy and alfalfa was left to rot on the field, I saw sieve-like openings in the matted covering of grass, when the snow had melted. Holes were eaten through the heavy layer, and from these holes tunnels criss-crossed the uneven surface of the soil. Young grass shoots, pale green and white, were strewn in these paths.

I opened several burrows by simply running my hand along for several steps. Three soft furry nests within as many yards, I found in one place. I partially pulled the top away from one and counted five warm wriggling mice with eyes still closed. When the babies shivered in the cold air, I hastily drew the cover back again, and they snuggled down as contentedly as before.

No wonder that almost daily I have seen Tom, the big barn cat, and Mehitabel the basement kitten go down the road together, cross the level stretch, and sit poised to spring at the foot of this grassy old knoll. Even when the snow was on, they did it. Both cats are fat, too, (although we seldom feed them.)

And one gray foggy afternoon when the snow was four inches thick, I saw a red fox amble along the slope. For a second he stood with ears pricked at attention and his pointed nose close to the frosty surface. Suddenly I saw him bound, thrust in his face beneath the crust and gulp a mouse. He walked a few steps and repeated the maneuver. I stood there near the road, against the icy wind and knew that Reynard had figured wisely. Tasty tender field mice were tidbits at a time when rabbits near motherhood, pheasants are gaunt and hungry; opossums are still asleep. I doubted not that he carried home good news to his vixen, that day.

Owls know about the mice. All winter long I heard the deep-voiced night owl and the quavering screech owls on the slope at the woods edge. They do their part to hold in check the numbers of mice that might in spring destroy my own and my neighbor's orchards and crops.

In the village fur house I counted 35 smooth fox skins hung to dry. The buyer said he had already disposed of twice that number. It strikes me here is a study in "nature's balance," a living fox might be worth more than its pelt.

More About Tunisian Battle Front Where Death "Must Be Expected."

AT THE FRONT LINE IN TUNISIA—(By Wireless)—The afternoon sun went over the hill and the evening chill began to come down. We were sitting on a bushy hillside—just a small bunch of American officers forming what is called a forward command post.

"Officers who had been in the battle for Ousseltia Pass all day began wandering in through the brush on foot, to report. They were dirty, and tired. But the day had gone well, and they were cheerful in a quiet and unexpressed way.

A medical corps major came up the hill and said: "Those blankety-blanks! They've knocked out two of my ambulances that were trying to get the wounded back. A hell of a lot of Red Cross means to them!" Nobody said anything. He went back down the hill as mad as a hornet. The officers kept talking about three fellow officers who had been killed during the day, and a fourth one missing. One of the lead men apparently had been a special favorite. An officer who had been beside him when it happened came up with blood on his clothes.

ERNIE PYLE

"We hit the ground together," he said. "But when I got up, he couldn't. It took him right in the head. He felt no pain."

"Raise up that tent and pack his stuff," an officer told an enlisted man.

Another one said: "The hell of it is his wife's due to have a baby any time now."

JUST than a sergeant walked up. He had left the post that morning with the officer who was now missing.

"Where's Captain So-and-So?" they all asked.

The sergeant said he didn't know. Then he said he himself had been captured.

"Captured?" the officers asked.

"Yes," he said. "The Italians captured me and then turned me loose."

The sergeant was Vernon Gery, South Bend, Ind. He is a married man, and was a lawyer before the war. He is a young and husky fellow. He didn't appear to be very much shaken by his experience, but he said he never was so scared in his life.

Sitting there on the ground he told me his experiences. He and the missing captain and a jeep driver had gone forward at 9:30 in the morning to hunt for the body of a popular officer who had been killed. They parked the jeep, and the captain told them to stay there till he returned.

They covered the jeep with brush and then hid in the bushes to wait while the captain went on alone. As they were lying there the driver yelled to Sergeant Gery, "Look, they're retreating!"

He saw eight soldiers coming toward them. He thought they were French, but actually they were an Italian patrol. The driver's shout attracted their attention and they began shooting. The two Americans fired back.

The jeep driver was hit and killed instantly. Gery said the driver yelled just once when he was hit!

"I'll be hearing that yell for a long time," he said.

In a moment the Italians had Gery. Apparently they were on a defenite mission, for seven of them went on, leaving one guard to watch Gery. They had taken his rifle, searched him, and given back his identification cards, but they kept his cigarets, pipe, tobacco, chewing gum and message book.

"Did they take your money?" I asked.

"I didn't have any," Gery said. "I haven't been paid in three months. I haven't had a cent in my pocket for weeks."

For an hour the one Italian sat ten feet from Gery with his rifle pointed at him. Gery says the Italian must have been well acquainted with the American rifle, for he passed the time taking it apart and putting it together, and did it rapidly and correctly. The Italian didn't try to talk to Gery.

Suddenly our artillery began dropping shells close to where they sat. That was too much for the Italian. He just got up and disappeared into the bushes. And Gery started home.

AS GERY finished his story, the commanding colonel came back from his afternoon's tour. He sat down on the ground, and the officers gathered around to hear his reports and get their instructions for the night.

There was still gunfire all around. The colonel, a tall, middle-aged man, wore glasses. He had a school-teachery look bur he cussed a blue streak and made his decisions crisply.

You could tell he was loved and respected. He called all his men by their first names. He wore a brown canvas cap, without any insignia at all. Officers at the front try to look as little like officers as possible, for the enemy tries to pick them off first.

Somebody asked if the colonel would like a cup of tea. He said he would. Somebody yelled, and out of the bushes came a Chinese boy in uniform and helmet, carrying a teapot covered with a rag.

Planes came over again, and several officers ran to foxholes, but the colonel acted as though he didn't see them. The rest of us stayed and continued the conversation.

The officers told him about the three members of his staff who had been killed.

"Christ!" he said.

Then he said: "Well, we're in a war. We've got to expect it. We must try not to feel too bad about it."

And then he went on: "Here's the way it is. We are being relieved at 11:30 tonight. Jim, you start taking up your phone wire, but nothing else moves a foot before daylight. Joe, you keep on firing up to leaving time, so they won't know we are pulling out. We've got 'em on the run, and I wish we could stay, but we've got our orders."

Then everybody left to carry out his new duties, and we went back down the hill to our jeep.

That is the way war looks from a forward command post.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT POINT RATIONS

ere's 'Quiz' to Acquaint You With Details of New Program.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Point rationing gins March 1. When should you gister, and where? How will work? What does it mean? To straighten you out on a lot questions that likely have come , the office war information ued the following question-and-swer today:

Q. When does point rationing gin?

A. March 1.

Q. When may a housewife reg-ter for her point rationing book?

A. Registration begins Febru-y 22, and will last for one week.

Q. Where does one register or war ration book No. 2?

A. At a designated public chool where teachers will han-le registrations.

Q. What foods will be rationed der the point rationing system?

A. The program includes the ra-ning of canned and bottled iits, vegetables, soups, and ces, frozen fruits and vegeta-s, and dried fruits.

Q. What is the purpose of point tioning?

A. To guarantee everyone a fair are of scarce but essential ods, while at the same time giv-everyone a variety of items m which to choose.

Q. What are the differences be-een point rationing and the pon rationing, which is now in ect for sugar and coffee?

A. The first important differ-e is this: Under straight cou-rationing, one single coupon itles the consumer to buy a cific amount of a single com-dity—such as, one sugar coupon itles you to buy three pounds sugar. But in point rationing, set of coupons covers a whole up of commodities. Secondly: coupons in point rationing are different denominations. Third-the various rationed items with group will have a different nt value.

Q. Who designates the number points for each kind of food size?

. The government. Scarce food take many points. Foods, ch are not so scarce, will take points.

Q. Will the points vary?

A. The government may ange the points—up or down from time to time, probably t oftener than once a month. one else has the authority make a change.

. How will a housewife know n point values are changed?

. The newspapers and radio will carry announcements, and every food store will have an OPA poster showing the current point values of each particular product. A new poster will be issued when point values change.

Q. Will the point value be the same in all stores?

A. The point values are the same in every store in the country regardless of the price charged.

Q. How does one shop under the point rationing system?

A. Shopping with points is new for the American housewife, but not difficult. The advantages of point rationing far outweigh its inconveniences. For example, here's how a housewife would shop: War ration book two contains four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps (the blue stamps are for processed foods, the red stamps will be later used for meat). On each stamp is a number designating how many points the stamp is worth. Different kinds of foods take different number of points. For instance—a can of peas may take a different number of points than a can of beans. The larger the quantity of the rationed food a housewife purchases, the more points it will take. For example, if the food a housewife buys calls for 13 points, stamps to cover this number will be torn from war book 2 by the grocer.

Q. How many points will each individual be entitled to?

A. Every person, regardless of age, will be entitled to 48 points for processed foods each ration period.

Q. What are some other suggestions for shopping under the point rationing system?

A. Shop early in the day and early in the week. Shopping will take longer because a housewife will have to plan and figure shopping in money and in points. Use 8 and 5 stamps first. Don't use more stamps than you need to make up the total amount. For example: For a 16 point purchase, use two 8 point stamps —not three 5's and a 1. Housewives should save their low point stamps for low point foods. Remember—grocers will not be able to give change for stamps. Housewives should budget their points like they budget their household money.

Q. How may a housewife budget her family's points?

A. A housewife may figure out the family's approximate weekly point allowance in the following manner: divide 48 points (the ration per person allowed for each ration period) by the number of weeks in the ration period; multiply that by the number of persons in the household, and that will give a housewife the weekly point budget. Then list the point rationed foods and the quantities expected to be bought for the week; put down the point value beside each rationed food on the list, then add up all the points beside each rationed food on the list and compare it with the family's point budget for the week.

Q. Suppose the list adds up to fewer points than the family weekly point budget?

A. If this is the case, the housewife can buy everything on the list without straining the point budget.

Q. Suppose her list adds up to more points than the family weekly point budget?

A. The housewife will then have to make some changes in her shopping plans. She can change some of the high point items to low point foods, or change to some non-rationed foods, such as fresh vegetables and fruits.

Q. Suppose a housewife exhausts her points before the ration period is up?

A. Then she will have to get along without any more point rationed foods until the next rationing period begins.

Q. Explain in detail why the government may change the point value of certain foods from time to time?

A. The government will raise or lower the points to encourage or discourage buying of any particular product in order to keep the market stable. For instance, if there was a big demand for canned peaches, and they were being bought so fast that it looked as if they would disappear from the stores entirely before the new pack came on the market, the government would raise the point value and fewer people would buy them. Or if, for example, very few people were buying canned peaches, and it looked as if there would be a lot of them left over when the new pack came on the market, the government would lower the point value and more people would buy them.

Q. Suppose a housewife hasn't full need for all her ration stamps. Is she permitted to give her extra stamps away?

A. No. A housewife is not allowed to let anyone else use her point ration book unless they are buying for her. The government asks that if a housewife doesn't need all her ration allowance, not to trade and use up all the point stamps.

Q. Suppose a housewife dines out with friends and wants to make up for the part of the ration she eats. Is she permitted to give her hosts stamps from her book?

A. No. Grocers are not allowed to accept loose stamps. The housewife can authorize her host to use her ration book when she purchases food for the meal, or the housewife can bring her share of the meal to make up for what she eats.

Q. How about exchanging rationed food with other people?

A. You can lend or borrow rationed items without using point stamps. When this is done, you are required to exchange foods of equal point value.

Q. May a child, doing shopping for a housewife, shop under the point system by just taking loose stamps to the grocer instead of an entire book?

A. No. All stamps must be removed from ration book 2 in the presence of the grocer from whom the purchase is being made.

Q. When a housewife gets her war ration book 2, what must she report in order to obtain the book?

A. She must report how many cans, jars or bottles, 8 ounces or larger, her household has of commercially packed canned fruits, vegetables, fruit and vegetable juices, canned soups, chile sauce and catsup.

Q. Does this include home preserved foods?

A. No.

Q. Must a housewife report her coffee stocks?

A. Yes. She must report the number of pounds on hand November 28, 1942, less one pound for each person, whose age is more than 14 years.

Q. Why is it necessary for the housewife to report the quantity of commercially packed canned goods and coffee?

A. This declaration protects the housewife against hoarders and thoughtless individuals. If a housewife has "about to be rationed food" and coffee in her possession above the allowable amount her ration book will be "tailored" accordingly.

Q. What is the penalty for making a false report?

A. There is a penalty of up to $10,000 fine and 10 years in jail for reporting false figures on canned goods and coffee.

Q. When a housewife applies for war book 2, is it necessary for her to bring along war book 1?

A. Yes. Otherwise she cannot get the new point rationing book.

Q. Why is this necessary?

A. So the proper number of coffee stamps may be "tailored" if necessary.

Q. When a person registers for ration book 2 and declares about-to-be-rationed-food in his possession in excess of the allowable amount, will all his stamps be removed from his book?

A. No. The government does not wish to deprive any person of point purchasing power during a ration period.

Q. How long will the first ration period last?

A. That will depend largely on the date the system goes into effect, however, it is planned to make subsequent periods last a month.

Q. Why is it necessary to suspend the retail selling of canned good before rationing begins under the point system?

A. There are several reasons. In the first place, all food stores throughout the country must be given an opportunity to prepare for the start of rationing, such as training of clerks, receiving official OPA point values, etc. Secondly, the public must be registered for book 2 and be notified of actual point values and be given time to study them and budget their points for the first rationing period.

Q. Although the deadline for registration for book one is past, will the government afford delinquents another opportunity to register for this book?

A. Yes.

SO CONFUSING

BALTIMORE — (AP) — It was "very confusing," the man told Police Magistrate W. Harry Noeth, how a hill up which he was driving turned out to be a street car trestle off which he and his car plunged 20 feet to the pavement. But Magistrate Noeth wasn't confused. He fined the man $100 and costs for drunken driving and $10 and costs for reckless driving.

THE BOY FROM MAINE

By Katharine Brush

(Copyright 1943)

CHAPTER XXVI

At the end of June they moved the Club Mallory into summer quarters — taking over a vast barnlike roadhouse on the Boston Post road. Hobey commuted, having bought himself a car—the first car of his life. Now there was two reasons why he had to be in town for part of every day, and one of them was a small new radio job he had picked up—he was announcer on a commercial program—and the other was the fact that Rosalie, after her return from France in June, didn't go away again for the summer. Instead she settled down and stayed in New York through the hot weather.

This was unusual, and she gave various casual explanations of it at different times—she had spent all her money, that was one of them; she'd been away enough lately; and Bailey wasn't taking his vacation until autumn, so she was staying in town to be with him . . . She didn't stress the latter explanation, but she repeated it several times, and Hobey kept recalling it with some perplexity as the summer advanced Because really it seemed that she and Bailey were together very little. She seemed to have more and more evenings on her hands, with nothing to do.

Hobey wasn't available for any part of the evenings now—there was a dinner show at the roadhouse nightly at 8.30, so he had to leave New York not later than seven — but he took Rosalie to lunch two or three times a week, and they spent a lot of their afternoons together, seeing the new movies, or driving to the country or the shore Hobey's broadcast was at six and often Rosalie accompanied him to the studio, it was a place that fascinated her "This is where your future is," she said to Hobey once. "I'll bet you anything"

"Is that a hunch?"

"Don't you believe in hunches?"

"Certainly I do. I might even play that one" he said thoughtfully "Since it's yours"

"After all," Rosalie said, "You don't want to spend your whole life in the night-club business."

"It's a good enough business," Hobey said, but that was more out of loyalty to Ruby than because he really thought so. "But you're right, I don't." he agreed then. "I've been thinking a lot about that lately."

"Have you really? I'm glad"

"It's all your doing," he said "You're a great ambitionrouser, did you know that? You're what's known as Divine discontent. And I needed you. And how."

"My friends just call me Deede," Rosalie concluded lightly She was always carefully light when Hobey threatened to be overserious, or too revelatory, about his feeling for her. They both knew that it was safer that way.

Several times that summer, becoming serious herself, she commented anxiously on the fact that she took up a great deal of Hobey's time, and gave him nothing in return "You do, though," Hobey said "Just being with you is enough, don't you understand that?" And it was for the present. It was so much better than nothing.

He kept wondering about Bailey, and some time in August he found out that Bailey was not devoting himself exclusively to golf and business. Actually it was Ruby who found it out; Ruby always heard gossip—perhaps because she wasn't the sort of person who wanted to "Your girl's husband's got a girl, it seems," she said bluntly to Hobey one day.

"How do you know?"

"Never mind how I know."

"I was afraid that was it," Hobey said somberly. "Who is she?"

He knew as soon as Ruby told him. Her name was Maxine Loomis, and she was quite a girl around town, and a great many people knew her. She was in her late twenties—or she looked to be—and she had been married a couple of times. She was divorced just now. She worked, but not very hard, in and out of the office of a literary agent. It was the sort of job that seemed to consist chiefly of lunch at Twenty-One You always saw her in places like that, in all the smart speakeasies; and you saw her at opening nights in the fall. . . . She was usually escorted by more than one man She had a reputation for wit, and for giving amusing parties in her small apartment; and you read about her in the social columns and the Broadway ones, about half and half She had an exotic sort of face, with the long eyes and the high cheekbones that were becoming fashionable, and the big mouth that the fiction-writers never called big, but always called "generous." Her hair was straight and black and simply worn, and the long eyes were almost topaz-colored. She was statuesque and tall—she was in fact the antithesis of Rosalie in almost every way . . .

Hobey had no sooner heard the news of Bailey's interest in this glamor girl than he saw them together in a restaurant one day at cocktail time After that he was always afraid that he and Roslie would run into Bailey and the girl somewhere. When the Club Mallory reopened in town and Hobey again had evenings free until midnight and he and Rosalie could dine together, the chances of such an encounter were of course redoubled; and whenever the choice of the restaurant was left to him, he tried hard to pick a place that Bailey wouldn't have thought of

Gradually, as the autumn wore on, he discovered that he needn't worry. They saw Maxine Loomis several times in several public places—twice at the theater, for instance—but she was never with Bailey on these conspicuous occasions. Evidently she and Bailey had their hideaways, and met only there.

Late in October Bailey still hadn't taken his long-postponed vacation, and Hobey said casually to Rosalie one day, "When's Bailey going away, anyway? Wasn't he going fishing to Canada? I thought—"

"Oh, he's given that up," Rosalie said, "poor Bailey. He isn't going away at all, until—well, not for quite a while. I spoiled that for him, I'm afraid," she added critically; and smiled a little.

"Did you? How?"

'How good are you at keeping secrets?"

"You might try me," he said "I can always cut my tongue out—and I would."

"Hold my hand while I tell you"

He held her hand while she told him.

"Not that it's going to be a secret for very much longer," Rosalie said. "Hobey—I'm going to have a baby. In March."

"Are you, darling?" he said gently. There was nothing in his voice to indicate that his whole mind was crying, Oh God, no—Rosalie—you're not . . .

"I'm going to have a little boy named Peter," she went on confidently. "Peter Harker Don't you think that's cute?"

"But very."

"I try it over in all sorts of ways," Rosalie said, "and I still love it. Even to his wedding invitations—years and years from now. 'Mr. and Mrs. Whosis Hoop-de-do request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Sally . . . to Mr. Peter Harker.' . . ."

"It couldn't be the other way round, could it," Hobey said. "Peter wouldn't turn out to be Sally."

"Of course not" Rosalie said flatly. "I won't have it He's got to be a boy—otherwise why bother? I mean you can't imagine Bailey with a daughter, can you? I can't."

"I can't imagine either of you with any offspring at all"

"I don't want to do this very much," said Rosalie. "But it's the only thing I haven't done—I mean, about my marriage" Her face was shadowed, and her voice was carefully crisp She shrugged her shoulders slightly. "It's supposed to work," she said. "The women's magazines all say it will. They promise."

Hobey thought, so you do know. But he wasn't sure how much she knew—and in any case he must himself pretend to a complete and incredulous ignorance; and he was quick to do so. He said, "What on earth are you talking about? There's nothing wrong with your marriage, that I can think of—except that it's modern."

"A little too," said Rosalie. "And it's my own fault, I used to think I wanted it that way. But lately . . . I don't know. Let's just say that lately it's been getting a little out of hand."

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL

Read all about it

Perhaps never before have newspapers been so effective as they are today.

All you have to do is watch the way people reach for a newspaper on the way in town, or going home.

People are reading more, and more intelligently than they have ever done before.

But you miss the most important fact about all this if you ascribe the increase in newspaper readership solely to the war. The reason is far deeper than that.

The fact is, newspapers have changed.

They are more accurate, more flexible, more impartial, more alert to readers' interests than they have ever been.

The advertiser who does not take this into account is overlooking an important change in customers and markets.

We have spent a great many years studying American newspapers. We know, by experience, what kind of newspaper advertising brings results. As a matter of fact, N. W. Ayer & Son has placed more space with newspapers than any other one company in the nation.

N. W. AYER & SON, INC.

(A recent advertisement by N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc.)

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS are grateful for this tribute from one of the country's leading advertising agencies. And they are keenly aware of their added responsibilities in these days of unprecedented world crisis. • News has always been a precious commodity. But never has it been so precious, so necessary, so much in demand as it is today. And never before have American newspapers striven so diligently to supply that demand. • It is this dependence of the American public on the daily press . . . this indispensability of the newspaper to the individual, the community, and the nation . . . that makes newspaper space the smartest advertising investment for today and for the peacetime years to come.

AMERICAN WIFE OF SLAV ENVOY FLEES EUROPE

Veteran of Four Balkan Wars Safe in Boston After Dramatic Escape.

BOSTON—(INS)—Madame Slavko Grouitch, American-born refugee and widow of the first Yugoslav minister to the United States, is now safe in Boston after fiction-like escapes from Nazi-dominated Europe.

A veteran of four Balkan wars, she is lecturing on behalf of the 500,000 beleaguered war sufferers in her adopted country, many of whom are now in Axis prison camps.

"I was too fascinated to be frightened," she said of that Palm Sunday when formations of 800 German bombers roared over Yukoslavia and blasted supplies and communications.

More than 20,000 persons were killed when the armadas from fields in Rumania and Bulgaria swarmed over Belgrade and reduced the capital to silence by cutting it off from the outside world.

Mme. Grouitch said she owed her life to the Croat people who fed her, hid her, and helped her avoid routes used by the German troops after the bombardment.

On Good Friday, friends escorted her through bombed Belgrade in a military automobile. She was taken across the Danube before the bridges were blown up.

Hours after she boarded a troop train, the rail bed was destroyed and she found herself alone with two small Yugoslavian boys. Her military companions were taken away.

"I had a Yugoslavian passport," she said, "a special military passport to which I was entitled because of my former hospital work, a basket of food and about $1,000 sewed into my clothes."

She was arrested and then released along with the two boys in a Croatian town. She was eventually able to obtain a cart and leave the place.

At Ruma, posing as a Hungarian peasant, she slept in a luggage room of a railroad station.

She waited and waited for a train, but so many people were in the same plight that she did not have a chance to get one. Finally, she made her way to the Adriatic coast, where she was befriended by a young girl.

She went through France, Switzerland, Italy, and Spain in her attempt to get get off the continent. Mme. Grouitch was able to make contact with the American Consular service and sailed from Lisbon to freedom.

"Yugoslavia," she said, "as a whole is passionately national. We have a fighting tradition that will serve the United Nations well when the time comes for general uprising."

As Fire Razed Evansville State Hospital

This picture of the fire which destroyed the administration building and four adjoining dormitories of the Evansville, Ind., State hospital for the Insane, was taken at the height of the fire. Nearly 1,200 mental patients, some of them violently insane, fled the buildings. A few wandered as far as five miles away. Damage was etimated to exceed $2,000,000 by asylum officials.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough medicine, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

START SURVEY OF FARMERS IN HOLMES COUNTY

AAA Office Sends Out Work Sheets to Learn Farm Plans For Year.

MILLERSBURG — The Holmes county AAA office is now at work seeking necessary facts about the county's farmers, according to Bert Glauque, chairman of the county AAA and War Board.

Men and women from each township who are familiar with this work are now contacting every farmer and will assist them in the job ahead, and ask farmers to co-operate in the production program set up by the nation's Agricultudal Adjustment Administration, said Glauque

This survey is expected to be of assistance to farmers who may need manpower and farm machinery. It will include the filling out of a work sheet enumerating the number of acres of cropland, open-pasture and other land and will describe how the land is to be used. Livestock and poultry will also be listed

One of the most important things the survey will show will be the condition and extent of farm machinery. Because of the loss of man power farm machinery will be more important this year than ever before. When this survey is completed the AAA will know what farm machinery or equipment he has, what he needs and other valuable information.

ALLOTTED MACHINERY

MILLERSBURG — The first allotment of new farm machinery for Holmes county as of Jan 1, as expressed by Chairman Bert Glauque was termed "exceedingly small" but has been slightly increased.

The allocation of spike and spring tooth harrows, cultipacker, lime spreaders, grain drills and binders is very small

At the present time the county has not received an allotment for corn pickers Glauque said Only those who will serve the greatest number of farmers will be given consideration for purchase certificates. Barbed wire woven fence and milking machines for Holmes county may be adequate and most of the applications probably will have all they need, Glauque said

WOMEN TO HAVE MOST PARTS IN ASHLAND PLAYS

May Day Celebration Planned By College; Absence of Men Changes Program.

ASHLAND — Early signs of spring in Ashland include announcement from Ashland college today that May Day plans are being inaugurated and that the annual competition for an original May Day play is now open for contestants.

Because the war is rapidly diminishing the man-power on the campus Miss Thelma Slack, head of the department of speech, warned potential contestants for the May Day play prize that characters in the plays should be predominately feminine

Last year the May Day play was written by two coeds, Miss Louise Clark of Ashland and Miss Helen Lowry of Hubbard.

FATHER, SON IN SERVICE

ASHLAND — Ashland county's service honor roll board on the courthouse lawn will have two Stanley W Scotts, father and son, inscribed together on it this week.

Stanley, jr., has been in the navy for some time and his name is already on the board His father, Stanley, sr. was called to active duty in the navy a few days ago Because there is no room for the father's name near that of the son's at its present location, the son's name will be painted out and both placed together on another section of the board.

It will be the first "senior" and "junior" combination on the honor roll here.

ITHER STATES AND OHIO FACE LIQUOR 'CRISIS' urvey Shows If War Lasts Much Longer It'll Be Long Time Between Drinks.

By ROBERT C. M'CORMICK
(INS Staff Correspondent)

There's no question about it: the war lasts much longer, the ıole country is going to discover at it really is a long time be- een drinks. Ohio isn't alone.

Despite an Office of Civilian pply statement that the nation s "large stocks of liquor" suf- ient to "provide normal con- mption for several years" an ternational News Service sur- y today revealed that all is not uor that comes in bottles.

Rather, the shortage is so criti- in Ohio that some taverns are ced to close one or two days a ek; at least seven of the onopoly" states have instituted ioning to the individual cus- ner and some nationally ad- tised brands have virtually dis- peared from sale throughout the ıntry.

The nation-wide situation came light through a recent OCS tement that the nation "might" forced to subsist on one per t of its 1941 liquor supply, ap- oximately enough to care for dicinal needs only. This, the S said later, was "distorted" give the impression that OCS recommended cutting sales to per cent of 1941 levels.

"There is no indication what- r that we shall at any time in discernible future get down rock bottom and be compelled distribute liquor on a bedrock is," said Joseph L. Weiner, di- tor of OCS, when apprised of interpretation placed on his lier remarks.

Yet evidence supporting the op- ite theory is equally strong.

With the entire liquor industry producing alcohol only for vernment consumption, a kesman for one leading dis- er estimated that stocks now hand in warehouses would last y three and a half years, per- s less. Even when the distill- are allowed to make more, he led, it would take at least two rs for the product to reach the rket.

It would be just like the situa- n when repeal came," the manu- turer declared. "Some cheaper nds would be rushed onto the rket almost at once but the lic would have to wait some e, for the liquor to age, before could get bonded whisky."

his source remarked, further- re, that the industry was hope- it would be granted a week's cation" from making govern- nt alcohol this spring and be wed to make liquor. This, he imated, would add another six nths supply to the nation's ndling stock.

ctually, however, the situation t all beer and skittles. Dis- ers, faced with smaller sup- s, have rationed wholesalers, fficially at least. Wholesalers e cut down on the retailers and latter, naturally, are passing slash along.

he biggest shortage seems to in the mid-west where Iowa's te-owned liquor stores are iting individual customers to pint of their own choice a k. If you'll take the store's ice in brand, however, you can a quart.

ennsylvania has limited pur- ses to one bottle to a customer. Indiana, wholesalers are ra- ing all taverns, package stores and drug stores and name-brands have almost disappeared from stock. State liquor stores in Virginia last week began a ration book system limiting each customer to two quarts a month.

The Missouri Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association says the shortage is so acute its members "could sell anything that's in a bottle" while in Ohio the reserve stock in domestic brands is entirely exhausted. Deliveries through most of the mid-west are on a day-to-day basis.

The stocks in Washington, D. C., are low, and officials estimated the supply will continue about 65 to 70 per cent below normal. New Mexico dealers face an acute shortage with one big distillery refusing further sales entirely despite the biggest demand in history.

Scotch still is plentiful in some sections of the country with gin fast becoming a memory.

Almost invariably, sections where no shortage has been noted as yet are located near large distilleries or metropolitan centers of population. Chicago and New York haven't felt the effect of curtailed shipments to any extent although some name brands are hard to find in the nation's largest city.

There is no shortage in Kentucky, although distillers are releasing only 70 per cent of last year's sales. Transportation difficulties have slowed delivery into New England but the large supply in warehouses there is being used as a temporary stopgap.

Wounded Buna Troops Transported In Jeep

Allied wounded are carried back from the fighting front at Buna, New Guinea, to a base hospital behind the lines. A U. S. jeep proves its worth once again, for this time it is used as a stretcher-carrier. This photo is one of the first showing the details of the final assault on Buna. A short time later, Allied troops drove the trapped Japs from their stronghold after a series of savage battles.

AP APPROVES ASSESSMENT

New Members Required to Pay 10 Per Cent of News Fees Since 1900.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Members of the Associated Press have adopted an amendment to the by-laws requiring an applicant for membership in an occupied field to pay a sum equal to 10 per cent of the total amount of the regular assessments paid by members in that field since 1900.

The change in the financial requirements for admission into the non-profit cooperative was ratified at a special meeting, 1103 to 3. Assessments cover the cost to members of the gathering and disseminating of news by the organization.

The 10 per cent amendment was offered by the board of directors at the April 1942 meetings of the members. Subsequently, during discussion on the board's proposal, an amendment, offered from the floor, was adopted saying that in no case should the monetary requirement for membership be less than three times the current regular assessment.

Reporting to the board at its January meeting this year, a special committee said that its study of the two requirements showed in many instances that there was no consistent relationship between them, while in others the two sums substantially were the same. The committee said the inconsistency was pronounced in the larger cities, and recommended to the board that the provision for three times the current annual assessments be eliminated.

PAINT NOW!

The Truth About Painting In Wartime

There is no ban on painting . . . in fact, your government wants you to "take care of the things you have." Paint is an acknowledged factor in the maintenance and repair of property. Paint protects and preserves our homes from deterioration, decay, moisture and other elements.

Maintenance of the $80,000,000,000 in existing American homes and apartments is a common-sense, economic and patriotic "must" as this country settles down for the long pull toward victory in war.

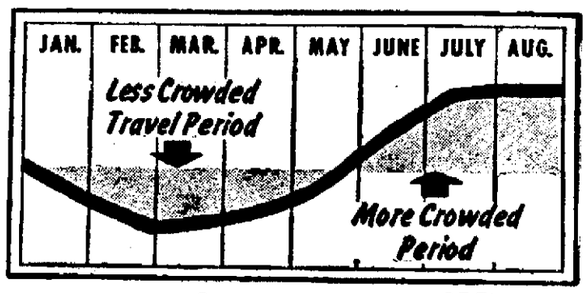
You can aid wartime bus service by making necessary trips in February or March—instead of Mid-Summer

Through the years bus travel has always been very heavy in some months, less heavy in others—and this has held true even in wartime. That's why Greyhound has long urged everyone to travel during less crowded periods — and February and March are just such times. Necessary trips taken, when possible, in mid-winter will greatly relieve overcrowding in the mid-summer months ahead.



You can aid wartime transportation still further by choosing the right day—in mid-week—and the right schedule—the least crowded one. It's wise to take along as little baggage as possible—and get information on any trip well in advance.

MISS LILLIAN J. WENTZ HONORED AT SHOWERS

Bride-elect Feted at Affairs By Miss Betty McGregor and Mrs. Roy Swaney; Miss Patricia Stuhldreher to Entertain This Evening.

GUEST OF HONOR at two showers in the last two days was Miss Lillian Wentz, bride-elect of Air Cadet Joseph P. Lesch. The first of the affairs, a miscellaneous shower, was given Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Betty McGregor, on Arch street.

Bridge was played during the evening, and prizes, won by Miss Marjorie Scott and Miss Mary Denig, were presented to the honoree. When luncheon was served late in the evening, the table was centered with an arrangement of flowers. Favors at the places of the guests were bridesmaids and that at the place of Miss Wentz was a miniature bride and groom. Miss McGregor presented Miss Wentz with a lace tablecloth.

Mrs. Roy Swaney entertained last evening in honor of Miss Wentz at the home of Mrs. H. L. Lindegger, Bowland road. Guests were members of the Colonial Art club.

Mrs. A. Boughton, Mrs. A. Dise and Mrs. J. Simmons presented prizes won in games to the honoree. Among the many lovely gifts received by Miss Wentz, was an electrical gift from the club members. The hostess presented the bride-elect with a gift of silver.

A red, white and blue color scheme was carried out in the table decorations, when luncheon was served. Three-branch candelabra at either end of the table held candles of red, white and blue.

Another shower has been planned for Miss Wentz, to be given this evening at the home of Miss Pat Stuhldreher, with Miss Geraldine Fisher and Miss Mary Vogel as associate hostesses. This will be a kitchen shower.

Miss Wentz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Wentz, 18 Newton avenue, and Air Cadet Joseph P. Lesch, the son of Peter Lesch, Washington avenue, plan to be married the latter part of this month. A definite date has not been set.

Tri Gamma Plans Pledge Initiations

Last evening the regular meeting of the Zeta Chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority was held at the home of Miss Frances Brown, West Third street. Miss Jeannette Werner, president, conducted the business meeting, at which final plans were made for rough initiation which is to be held Monday, Feb. 15 and formal initiation, to be held Wednesday, Feb. 24.

The pledge mistress, Miss Ethel Mae Bogan, had pledges, the Misses Judy Kelley, Maxine Williams and Ruth Mengert, entertain members of the sorority and read essays, that they had prepared.

After the business session was adjourned, bridge was played with Miss Patricia Oberlander, Miss Lillian Art and Miss Patricia Stuhldreher winning prizes.

Luncheon was served at the close of the evening, from a long table decorated in a timely Valentine theme. Miss Adaline Wilging will entertain at the next regular meeting, March 10, at her home on Marion avenue.

Have Meeting of Publicity Women

The Publicity committee of the Women of the Moose held a covered-dish dinner last evening in the Fiesta room of the Moose home. Mrs. Lester Perry, senior regent was a guest. Mrs. Gladys Stone was welcomed as a new member on the committee.

Dinner was served at a long table with Valentine appointments. A letter was read by Miss Ruth Roesch, junior graduate regent, from Miss Eirene Day, who is stationed at Sam Houston, Texas in the WAAC, in appreciation for being adopted by the publicity committee.

Cards were enjoyed at the close of the evening. The next meeting will be a basket luncheon to be held at the Moose home March 10, at 7:30. Hostesses will be Mrs. E. S. Smith and Mrs. Stone.

Club Joins In Book Campaign For Service Men

Last evening the McLaughlin Woman's Relief corps joined the numerous other Mansfield clubs in participating in the Victory Book campaign and urged each member to donate books to be taken to the public library for the benefit of service men, at their meeting in Memorial hall.

Mrs. Helen Glathart, president, conducted the business session at which donations were made to the Red Cross war fund drive, national educational fund for medical scholarships and national G. A. R. fund.

National General Orders No. 5 were read from the national president, Louise Haider, in which she expressed gratitude and appreciation to all past officers of 1942 for many outstanding services. She also expressed gratitude to junior clubs and many corps for donations for the blood donor fund. All members are urged to take home nursing courses and first aid.

A paper on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln" was read by patriotic instructor, Jane Beelman, in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. Mrs. Della Cochran read the Gettysburg address. Two selections were sung by Miss Elizabeth Edmonstone. They were "When the Lights Go on Again All Over the World," and "He Wears a Pair of Silver Wings." She was accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Teeters at the piano.

Mrs. Maude Addlesperger was the winner of a mystery package. The next regular meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 24, at which time there will be a Washington birthday party after the meeting, in charge of the executive committee.

Study Club Hears Mrs. John Hattery

Mrs. John Hattery was in charge of the program at the Wednesday Study club meeting, yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Louis Ott, jr., 759 Woodbill road. Mrs. Hattery used as her subject, "Laughs for the Waring World."

In her interesting paper, Mrs. Hattery told stories about and from service men. She read amusing parts of "Dear Mabel" by Edwin Streeter and selections from "See Here, Private Hargrove."

Coffee was served from a candle lighted table with Mrs. Alfred Reynolds pouring. Two guests, Mrs. William Layton and Mrs. Stevenson Ward of Bronxville, N. Y., were present.

Hedges Pupils, Teachers Hold Homecoming

Using the theme "Schools, Past Present and Future" Eugene Boling spoke for the homecoming celebration at Hedges school Tuesday evening for which approximately 200 former teachers and pupils were present.

Mr. Boling gave a history of the school telling how it was built on seven acres of land with the first building consisting of eight rooms. It was later enlarged to 12, then to 24, four of which since then have been changed into a gymnasium. The school was opened Feb. 21, 1872.

Guest speaker for the evening was Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler who gave several highlights on the school's history.

Several appointments were made during the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Carl McCullough. Mrs. Fred Tallman was named chairman of the pupils' garden club for the summer; the Misses Lois Baughman, Elsie McFadden and Mrs. Edward Kindinger appointed to work with a committee from the Mothers' club; Mrs. J. F. Carlisle, Mrs. H. W. Rinker and Mrs. M. A. String to buy awards for the March meeting.

Members of the "Spy" staff, school paper, told historical facts about Hedges school. They were Marilyn Snyder, Bill Scott, Mary Lou Boling and Miss McFadden, advisor. Peggy Carlisle, a pupil, gave the welcome speech. Luella Jackson, a future pupil, offered a reading. Mrs. Richard Wolford, teacher, accompanied Billy and Anita King for a tap dancing number.

Mrs. Charles O. Anglin, former student at the school, sang "The Old Refrain," "I Love Life" and "Nursery Rhymes." Former teachers who spoke were: the Misses Bertha Ruess, Sophia Ruess, Lencora Horn, Lena Zay and Rose Cherry.

Community singing was led by Mrs. Anglin accompanied by Mrs. Wolford. Mrs. Virgil Carver, Mrs. John Moran, Mrs. Charles Myers, Mrs. Harry Sellars and Mrs. Frank Wolverton served on the refreshment committee.

The next meeting will be recognition night on March 9 with Frank Wolverton as program chairman.

CONVERSATIONAL CLUB HAS DESSERT-LUNCHEON

Mrs. Eugene Smart Provides Program at Meeting; Mrs. Fannie Carrier Hostess; Mrs. R. B. Iden, Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Jr., Preside at Table.

MRS. EUGENE SMART was the program chairman, yesterday afternoon at the dessert-luncheon of the Conversational club, held at the Women's Club, at which Mrs. Fannie Carrier was hostess.

Mrs. Smart briefly reviewed the plays currently showing in New York and London, giving the more critical comments. She then played a recording of "White Cliffs of Dover" by Alice Duer Miller, the musical background of which was arranged and conducted by Frank Black.

At the short business meeting, it was decided to participate in the Victory Book campaign and to give to the Red Cross War Fund and the Margaret G. Harder Pan American Fellowship Fund.

Mrs. R. B. Iden and Mrs. J. H. Boyd, jr., presided at the luncheon table, which was decorated with an arrangement of spring flowers. Among the sixteen members present was one guest, Mrs. H. R. Cummins.

Mrs. Walter Willis will be the hostess at the next meeting. That will be in the form of a guest dessert-luncheon, Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the Women's Club. At that time, Mrs. George Hall will have charge of the program.

Have Dinner for Rollerette Club

In celebration of their second anniversary, the Mansfield Rollerette club had a chicken dinner, last evening at the Southern hotel. The Misses Mary Stover and Beverly Miles were in charge of the arrangements for the affair.

Centering the table was an arrangement of red roses. Individual corsages marked each place. The former president, Miss Marjorie Miles was a guest. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Virginia Garrison, 55 South Walnut street.

Muskie Club Has Birthday Dinner

Members of the Muskie club were entertained with a birthday dinner last evening by Mrs. Alice Scheukle, 323 West Fifth street. Table decorations were carried out in pink and white with pink candles and crystal holders, with a centerpiece of pink roses.

Mrs. Welda Pressnal, guest, was presented with a gift as was the hostess. Bingo prizes were won by Miss Mary Holzmiller, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Ruth Ibe, Mrs. May Schopp and Mrs. Pressnal. Mrs. Ibe will be hostess for the February meeting.

Mrs. Gasper Has Committee Meet

The alumni committee of the Women of the Moose met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Gasper, East Raleigh avenue, with Mrs. Marjorie Peppard and Mrs. Martha Butler as hostesses.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Susan Jocha, chairman, at which time it was planned to hold a rummage sale in March. Sales Tax stamps were counted. Luncheon was served at a long table. Mrs. Gasper, sister of Mrs. Jocha, presented her with a birthday cake.

The next meeting will be in the form of a guest party and covered-dish dinner in the Fiesta room at the Moose home, March 8, at 6:30. Mrs. Pauline Shively, Mrs. Hazel Hilborn and Miss Mary Holda will be hostesses.

Patrol Honored by Bowman P. T. A.

The Bowman school P.T.A. held its annual covered dish dinner Tuesday evening at Johns Park pavilion at which approximately 160 were in attendance. E. W. Kissel, principal of the school, was toastmaster, and presented the evening's program.

Community singing was enjoyed by the group, followed by an accordian duet, by Joan and Arleen Christman. Rev. Glenn Lewis spoke on "Safety." Short talks were also given by H. L. Creveling, former principal of the school, and Frend Boals, head of the School Boy Patrol.

In appreciation of their services, the boys' patrol, as honored guests, were presented gifts by the P.T.A. and the Mothers' club. Mrs. Don Hartig, president of the Mothers' club and Mrs. L. D. McVicar, president of the P.T.A. made the presentations.

The committee in charge of the dinner included Mrs. T. A. Reader, Mrs. J. E. Parnell, Mrs. Fred Schnaufer, Mrs. Earl Zimmerman, Mrs. W. W. Eccles, Mrs. John Bacquet, Mrs. Eugene Stone, Mrs. W.E. Hartwig, Mrs. Don Hartig, Mrs. Stanley Terman, Mrs. R. H. Dalenberg and Mrs. Kenneth Bell.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, February 12.

A state of affairs that might be critical prevails on this day, judging by peculiar planetary configurations. Transactions, in connections with large bodies demand much shrewdness. Peculiar problems of individuals may require singular methods of handling.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of an intriguing and eventful year in which their own peculiar talents, intuitions, or astuteness make for unexpected and conspicuous success. While large groups may be cooperative and hold good will, yet they may demand much yielding of original ideas, and definite change.

A child born on this day may have much unusual ability, with keen insight and intuitions, accompained by versatility and shrewdness of unexpected quality.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

As I handed the group photograph to Halloran I glanced at my father, and saw a familiar glint in his eye, as if an intuition of his own had been confirmed.

Georges, however, looked frankly bewildered. To him the photograph meant nothing, but my father had recognized it instantly as a picture of members of the cast in the Veritzen production of my play, and I knew when he spoke that he shared my theory as to the identity of the man planning to impersonate Georges.

"Good work, daughter!" he said in a low voice. "I am sure your intuition is correct."

We all watched Halloran as he studied the photograph, and at last held it out to me, pointing out one of the men in the group.

"This is the man," he said. "I am sure of it."

I took the photograph from Halloran and held it out to Georges.

"There's your double, Georges," I said lightly, for I guessed that he was nervously wrought up.

His start of astonishment told me that he too had recognized the photograph at once. Then he broke into hurried speech.

"Why," he stammered, "this is that unspeakable swine Redfield, that bounder who is Mary's leading man."

I saw my father's eyebrows rise at this outburst, also comprehension mingled with astonishment in Halloran's face. I knew the reason for Georges' animosity against Redfield lay in his perhaps subconscious romantic interest in Mary.

"You are sure of your man, Mr. Halloran?" my father asked.

"Absolutely," the make-up man replied. "I could swear to him anywhere."

"You may be called upon to do that very thing," my father said, then, at the dismay in Halloran's face, he added, "but it will be a secret session, with news cameras barred and only certain facts given out."

"I knew that man was a rotter the first time I saw him," Georges said vehemently. "Well, there's one consolation, Mary never will have to appear with him again."

"Unfortunately," my father said coldly, "that does not rest with Mary, nor yet with Philip Veritzen. Redfield is engaged in subversive activities, of which this attempt to get hold of your money is only one detail. Federal authorities will decide just how much rope is to be given him, in order that he not only may hang himself securely, but may also noose some of his associates for us."

"But, but Mary——" Georges started to protest.

"My dear boy," my father said, laying his hand paternally on the shoulder of the young exiled king, "don't you think we can safely leave Mary's welfare and ease of mind to her husband, to her father-in-law, and to my daughter, author of the play and closer to Mary than any other woman?"

His tone and words, though kind, subtly reproved Georges' presumption. That the young king caught my father's meaning I saw by his flush and sudden silence.

"And now," my father said more briskly, "I think you and Mr. Halloran would better get on with the task of making you ready for a public appearance."

"Oh, of course," Georges said. As he and Halloran started for the bedroom, my father asked:

"How long before you'll be ready, Mr. Halloran? That bank official will be here shortly, you know."

Exercise Essential To Health

By MME. QUI VIVE

When the boyish shape was tops the skinny girl was prideful of her bones. The less there was of it, the more pleased she was with her shape. Some of the skinnies reduced along with the plumpies. Lived on nothing a day, turned pale at the sight of a lamb chop.

Fads and frenzies that have to do with the appearance of the frail sex have their little day and away they go. They furnished the world that is gone with a certain amount of amusement, offered plenty of material for literary wits and cartoonists. They evaporate because some other precious nonsense comes along to engage the girls' attention. We fancy that for the duration all this playful business will be out. We've gone deadly serious. There's a big job on.

The skinnies realize now that underweight usually signifies under nourishment, and that won't do. They yearn for curves. They want to look robust. As if they could gobble up their corn beef and cabbage with the rest of us.

One thing is in their favor. There are fewer wild parties to rob them of sleep. People are getting to bed earlier. Sleep is the time when rebuilding goes on. If little Miss Slimp can tick off nine hours of restful slumber every night she will be on her way to giving the laugh to the bathroom scales. If she can throw in a nap on Sunday afternoon she will be aiding and abetting the good work.

Let her make up her mind to drink a quart of milk a day. Milk contains nearly all the elements that are necessary for nutrition. Fo putting on adipose cushions it must be rich with cream. Take one glass with each meal, another at bedtime, with a few crackers. Finicky eaters are usually poor sleepers; that's because they are hungry.

The diet should include meat, sea food, eggs, cereals, vegetables, especially green salads, fruits, cheese, nuts. And don't start the day with a silly breakfast. Have a hot cereal and an egg.

Thin girls are nearly always nervous and highly energized. They fly around so fast a fat cell can't light on them. That's no way to live, always in a hurry and a flurry. Life should be organized. A certain amount of outdoor exercise is essential to health, but the girl who is nothing but skin and bones must take hers in moderation.

Mental hygiene is a part of the program. Emotional storms interfere with assimilation. Fly off the handle and you're sick abed for the rest of the day.

Ronnie Killen, who was honorably discharged from the army at Kearns, Utah, on account of ill health, spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Killen. He returned to his home in Arizona.

Donald Coldwell spent a few days furlough with relatives.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT CAN YOU AFFORD?

This is an important question when you are playing rubber bridge. It comes up just as definitely in the play as in the bidding. When you need all of the tricks in your trump suit in order to make a game contract, it is up to you to use the method most likely to produce that result. If you can afford one loser, out are down if you lose two, then a safety play may be in order. In those rare cases where you can afford two losers, but not three, it is sound bridge to deliberately give up two tricks if in doing so you make sure you can't drop three.

MAT

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South saw, as soon as the diamond 2 was led, that he would have to lose a trick in each minor suit and consequently could afford only one loser in trumps. Of course, if the outstanding trumps were divided three in one hand and two in the other, he could not possibly lose more than one trump trick. And if the Q and J were doubleton in one hand, he would lose none.

Playing carefully, he laid down his heart A to see what would fall. If only small cards had appeared, his best next play would have been the other top honor. But when the Q was downed, he planned a safety play. If that was from the Q J doubleton, the other honor could be dropped and an extra trick scored by playing the K next. But if it was a singleton, that would not work. The safety play was to count East for all the other trumps.

Doing so, he led the heart 4, prepared to play low from dummy if the J went on and, when it did not, coming up with the 10. This forced out the J. Later he was able to finesse the heart 8 against the 9 and thus lost only one trump trick, making his contract.

What deceptive defensive play is East likely to get a chance to use on this hand if South plays it at a contract of 5-Diamonds?

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

/ASHINGTON—The proposal of Senator Gillette of Iowa could become something as sigficant and possibly as ominous as the famous ound Robin which a group of Republican senators sent to the Paris Peace conference in 1919. That Round Robin warned the conference that nothing promised by President Wilson could become binding until it was ratified by two-thirds of the senate. It was the unheeded warning of disaster to come.

Clapper

Senator Gillette's resolution delicately raises the same issue. Perhaps it is well to do so and have the thing out in the open and decided.

Senator Gillette proposes an ly treaty negotiation to set the United Nations' r aims in a more legal and binding form. He oposes that a treaty be negotiated to incorporate general principles of the Atlantic Charter, to ich the United Nations have subscribed by sigure but not by formal treaty.

The point has been raised by Senator Taft and ers that the Atlantic Charter and the United tions declaration have no legal treaty force so as the United States is concerned. They are larations signed only by the president of the ited States. They have not been accepted by -thirds of the senate, so they are not binding as erican policy, because no treaty is binding until ified by two-thirds of the senate.

You may say that the word of the president rally binds the United States. But the experience h the Treaty of Versailles proves otherwise, as s our experience with the world court, which been earnestly recommended by every presit since Wilson and rejected by the senate, even ugh an American judge sat on the court.

Support for Senator Gillette's proposal comes m some of those who have not been strong porters of the president's program. Senator Wheeler said he believed it extremely important to have the Allied war aims put in concrete form at the earliest possible moment. Senator Danaher of Connecticut said it was about time to find out how far some of the other United Nations were willing to go in postwar collaboration with us. These senators undoubtedly are skeptical of the Allies being able to agree on very much and would expect such negotiations to prove the case of those who are cynical of anything coming out of the United Nations.

Yet Senator Austin, a strong Republican supporter of the president's foreign policy, believes there is more chance of agreeing on war aims during the war than after the victory. Most Republicans take that position—Governor Stassen and Wendell Willkie have said it many times, and they are all for early action.

The administration does not want to have its hand forced by anything like the Gillette resolution. In fact the administration would be relieved if there was no talk at all for a while about war aims and the United Nations, beyond the airy generalities that have served up to now.

The preoccupation now is with the military side of the war, and a gigantic job is being done. The policy side or political side is in a state of confusion. Public discussion and opinion have no authoritative leadership now. Official propaganda flounders unsupported by a real lead from the president. The United Nations remains a powerful phrase that somebody thought up while shaving.

For instance, international aviation ought to be our dish but we don't yet have a policy as to what we want done, much less an understanding with other nations. Those who have urged a United Nations council and hoped that Casablanca would lead to it have been rebuked by the president. Every discouragement is thrown in the way of independent discussion of such matters.

Henry Wallace says an unplanned peace could be a worse disaster than war. Not very much has been planned as yet.

DIES SLEUTHS GET TWO MORE YEARS TO WORK

Congress Votes Extension of Committee After Bitter Hour-Long Debate.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Dies committee to investigate un-American activities came up with a new two-year contract from congress today as its checkmating house subcommittee on subversive government employes failed to get off to the flying start promised by its sponsors.

Actual hearings by the special appropriations subcommittee created to investigate charges against 39 government officials, it was disclosed by its chairman, probably will not begin until next week instead of immediately as indicated by house leaders.

Rep. Kerr (D) N. C., who was named chairman of the five-man subcommittee shortly before the house by a 304-94 vote gave the Dies committee its fifth extension, said the group had "nothing scheduled" for today.

"There are some preliminaries to be worked out," Kerr explained. Asked when the first formal session would be held, he replied, "probably next week."

Appropriations committee Chairman Cannon (D) Mo., who sponsored the special panel under an agreement between the Republican and Democratic leaders had assured the house that the subcommittee would take up the cases at once.

Feelings ran high as member after member took the floor to oppose or support the extension. Climax of the hour-long debate came when Rep. Voorhis (D) Calif., a member of the Dies group for the past four years but one of its strongest recent critics, opposed the continuance and announced his withdrawal. Voorhis said that, voting against the resolution, he would not expect to be named to the new committee.

Dies himself took the floor and added to a recital of the committee's accomplishments the statement that he and his family had been "threatened and hounded" by some of his critics. He asked for the extension "only on condition that we'll do our duty." And after the vote had been tallied—a vote reflecting the strongest opposition yet brought against the committee—he expressed gratification at the outcome.

SAVES NINE AS TUG CAPSIZES; 10 FEARED LOST

Salesman Rows 400 Feet To Rescue Victims of River Accident.

(By United Press)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Ten persons were feared drowned when the little tugboat May capsized in the Columbia river early today but nine others were rescued by a slender sandwich salesman who rowed a lifeboat through the swirling current to pick them up.

Harold Granville, about 30, an employe of the Russell Tow Boat and Moorage company, saw the tug's running lights waver a few minutes after it put out from the Oregon shore, loaded with workers for Henry J. Kaiser's Vancouver, Wash., shipyard.

Granville rushed from his sandwich counter and ticket booth, boarded a lifeboat and rowed 400 feet toward the failing lights. He fished several passengers from the water and saved the tug captain, Clarence Harvey, then rescued a few others from the fast sinking superstructure.

The 10 persons Granville was unable to crowd into his rescue boat—two of them crew members—were feared lost. The Portland harbor patrol and private boats joined in a search for the bodies, despite a swift, 10-mile current which it was feared would sweep them far downstream.

The May, put out from the ferry slip shortly after midnight with 16 passengers.

"I don't know what caused it," the tug captain said. "All was going well and then, as we passed beyond the river jetty, the wind seemed to hit us, and the current piled up on us, too. The May began to heel over, slow like."

It was at that moment that Granville, watching as he tended his counter high above the river bank in the ferry building, saw the lights begin to bob and falter. Officers credited him with preventing loss of all aboard the tug.

All of the passengers were shipyard workers and at least some of the missing were women. Of those saved by Granville, four were women.

One of them, 25-year-old Madeleine Nelson, reported her husband—who couldn't swim—was lost in the disaster. Officers said she supported him for nearly 20 minutes in the rushing waters, only to lose her grip as rescue neared.

PROPOSE PATROL AUXILIARY BILL

Measure Would Give Special Force Police Powers To Prevent Sabotage.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Establishment of a state highway patrol auxiliary, of unlimited size and possessing greater police power than the patrol itself, is authorized in legislation recommended to the Ohio senate today by its highway committee.

Sen. I. E. Baker (R-Montgomery), its author, said the bill had the endorsement of Highway Director Hal G. Sours and Patrol Supt. Lynn Black and the "sympathy" of Gov. John W. Bricker.

The auxiliary's duty would be to prevent sabotage and destruction by guarding facilities vital to the war effort, such as "bridges, dams, highways, institutions, conservancy districts, and any other vital facility under jurisdiction of the state or any political subdivision or designated by the war department."

The auxiliary patrolmen, while on duty, could exercise any police powers and arrest without warrant any person violating the law.

The proposed law does not enlarge the police powers of the highway patrol, now restricted to state highways and roads and the operation of motor vehicles.

The patrol superintendent would organize the auxiliary and prescribe qualifications for its members and their insignia.

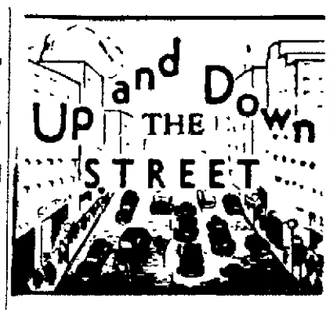
The auxiliary would operate during the war and six months thereafter.

The patrol has been crippled by the draft and resignations. Its present force is about 80 men less than the authorized 300.

The senate passed and sent to the house yesterday bills to accomplish the following:

Exempt kerosene from the one-cent-a-gallon liquid fuel tax, a move estimated to deprive the state of $200,000 a year revenue, and

Authorizing county commissioners to issue bonds to finance reassessment of real estate for taxation.



Mrs Callie Mae Jones, Mansfield R. D. 4, knows what it is to tangle with an army "half-track"—which is a cross between a wheeled truck in front and a caterpillar tractor behind. But the Richland county housewife escaped combat wounds when her auto collided with the army vehicle at Park avenue east and Hedges street yesterday afternoon, while her car suffered slight damage as the "half-track" refused to budge out of her path. The truck was driven by Pvt. Adelbert Steadl, North Olmstead, listed as a chauffeur with the Ordnance corps.

An interesting collection of objects made largely by the natives of Hawaii is attracting attention at the Mansfield Public Library. Loaned by Mrs. L. C. Baumgardner, 630 Courtright boulevard, the collection includes everything from a grass skirt, anklets and leis to semi-precious stones from the volcanic ashes of Pelee. Displayed also is a bottle of Okoleho, the native drink, and labeled as "very potent." Most of the items were presented to the owner by friends. The exhibit is supplemented by a special book display dealing with islands of the Pacific.

If the eight remaining members in the Phalanx fraternity can carry out their plans before they are called to the service they will publish a paper, to be called the Trumpet, which will be sent to their 36 brothers in the armed forces. James Elliott, president, has asked each member to contribute articles on happenings in Mansfield and what's what with the other 36 members of the club now in uniform. They're also going to include a list of the men in the forces plus their addresses. And, if perchance, any of the eight aren't called up the paper will be published quarterly, Elliott said.

PLAN PROTEST ON ASSESSMENT

Property Owners on Bartley Avenue Prepare Petition Opposing Charges.

Property owners of Bartley avenue, between Park View and Cline avenue are preparing a petition which will request council to order a revision, downward, of assessments proposed as their share of the cost of paving the thoroughfare last year.

The improvement, blacktop asphalt over a concrete base, was completed last fall, the city paying $6,000 plus an additional $571.76 allowed as wage increases paid by the contractor under the state's prevailing wage schedule published after estimates had been compiled. Estimates of assessed costs were $18,300 but figures computed by City Engineer W. C. Statler after completion of the project put the assessed cost at $16,710.

The assessing board, appointed by council was composed of William Beer, jr., J. C. Hamilton and Charles Conklin.

The ordinance provided that assessments be made in "proportion to the benefits which may result from the improvement" rather than by the front foot. With the foot frontage totaling 2,604.99 feet, the property owners say the cost as fixed by the board is approximately $8.80 a foot whereas they feel it should be around $6.50.

The petition likely will be filed this week and may result in the naming of an equalizing board which will order reduction of assessments against interior properties while charges against corner holdings may be elevated.

GIVES APPROVAL

U. S. OK's Survey Orders For Routes 30, 42 Projects.

Orders for post-war highway construction on State Routes 30 and 42 in Mansfield and Richland county had been approved by the federal public roads administration today along with surveys for six other similar Ohio projects.

The projects both in the county and elsewhere were designed to eliminate bottlenecks on arterial roads near industrial communities. Involving expenditures of close to $100,000 the seven undertakings will require five years for completion.

Hal G. Sours, state highday director, said that the department would work on the projects concurrently and that the cost of the surveys, $648,000 would be shared equally by the state and the federal public roads administration.

AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

EW YORK—About once a year, I take the trouble to declare that these dispatches have er been anti-labor or anti-union and to point that most of those who say they are anti-labor anti-union are either thieves and racketeers mselves or men who play along with crooks in ation of their own obligations to labor and onism or Communists whose declared mission in erican unionism is to establish minority control of the unions and work for the destruction of the republic.

Pegler

These dispatches have been aggressively pro-labor but neither pro-union nor anti-union. Labor is bigger than the labor movement, and comes first. It is composed of all Americans who toil one way or another for pay and includes practically all of us. The unions have much to their credit and there are good men among the leadership in the lower ranks. In the positions of onal power, such men as the pious Dan Tobin he teamsters and Philip Murray, the president he CIO, have been tolerant of associates whom have known to be rascals and enemies of both or and unionism. They have taken no initiative inst thievery and brutality and thus, themes, have been disloyal to labor and unionism. re is no national union leader big enough or d enough as a man for the job he holds. Tobin, for example, sat in the executive council he American Federation of Labor with George wne of the theatrical and movie employes' on, knowing that Browne was a vicious underld mobster but held his tongue because the cutive council is comparable to the New Deal y in that crooks are coddled lest they get sore pull their unions out of the federation. de sat quiet even when Will Green, the presi of AFL, appointed this notorious rogue to a mittee to investigate racketeering. Murray rely called John L. Lewis a Hitlerian dictator, of course Lewis is. But it didn't occur to him lo this while he was collaborating with Lewis is dictatorial rule of the mine workers. His inciation of his old partner in this sort of vity came only after Lewis pulled his miners of the CIO and deprived Murray of $30,000 a th in dues.

When unionism goes bad, as it has in the United States, its power for evil and its evil works more than compensate the benefits or organization. All of the more studious and idealistic unioneers freely admit this.

The New Deal party, including Mrs. Roosevelt, had a hidden purpose in their labor program as they called it. The Wagner act's stated purpose is to permit workers to bargain collectively through agents of their own choice. It is a deliberate, vicious fraud, for it has been used from the beginning to compel millions of workers to join unions against their will and thus to accept agents not of their free choice, and pay taxes to private bodies and submit to laws which they did not ratify. Brutality by organized bands of pickets armed with clubs, iron bars and hooks to drive people into unions was minimized as local disturbances when it was known that these insurrections against government were planned and directed in national offices, and that the conspiracies ran across many state lines.

It is the common argument of the crook and the crook's passive collaborators in the higher councils of unionism that there are relatively no more scoundrels in union office than in any other line of endeavor. That is not so, and the reason why the percentage of criminality in union office is so much higher than in any other calling is that most unions require no accounting of the money which, in the period of the war preparations and the armament and cantonment program has amounted to billions of dollars. Not millions nor hundreds of millions but thousands of millions of dollars.

If unionism falls in this country during the war emergency, there will be a government dictatorship over labor. In fact, that condition is developing now and it should be remembered that Mrs. Roosevelt first proposed it about a year ago in one of her columns in which she referred to "an interesting discussion at the White House" and went on to say that she was convinced that every one of us should be told what to do. If unionism fails, the blame will lie with such men as Green, Tobin, Murray and Lewis, and not with anyone who pointed out the evils of the system of union rule in which they were controlling characters and whom they abused for discerning their neglect and worse.

TALKS GARDENS

Horticulturist Speaks Tonight on 'Victory' Plots.

Plans for Richland county Victory gardens will be outlined tonight at a meeting in the courthouse at 8 p. m. when Donald Comin, horticulturist of the Ohio Agricultural station at Wooster, will be principal speaker.

Representatives of farm organizations, garden clubs, schools, nurseries, florists, civilian organizations and nutrition councils will attend the session at which Victory garden committees will be named.

The function of such a committee, as explained by County Extension Agent George B. Ganyard, is to bring an organized effort to bear on the one fundamental problem of producing and storing more food from Victory gardens to replace as far as possible that which will be unobtainable from groceries and markets.

HEART ATTACK ENDS IN DEATH

Tale of Our Town: People who work in the glitter-spots are supposed to be a pretty hard-boiled lot. You don't expect them to be sentimental, just as you don't look for long memories in a business where clubs open, close and are forgotten in the space of a week.

But there are a few old-timers left who remember the old days and the old faces, and one of e is Johnny Gorman of the Greenwich Village Johnny, a small, gentle-faced Irishman who ks the lighting effects for the floor show, has with the inn for more than 20 years.

Back in 1919, Johnny took a special interest ne of the bus-boys working there—a dark kid Latin handsomeness and patent leather hair a burning desire to be a dancer. Johnny encouraged the kid and gave him advice and whatever help he could, and when the kid went from bus-boy to tango dancer to fame as a Hollywood idol, it's no wonder that he remembered gentle Johnny and kept in touch with him.

Letters and mementoes arrived regularly, and Johnny kept them with a bulging scrapbook of clippings, because he was as proud as though the kid—who had become Rudolph Valentino—were his own son. When Valentino died, Johnny's quiet heart broke a little.

But Johnny is just a little man you'd never notice—and nobody did notice the other evening that tears were rolling down his cheeks. Everyone was too busy watching George Raft, the Hollywood star, dancing a tango—dancing a tango as only one other person ever did it.

Nobody noticed, and even if Johnny's tears had been more conspicuous, nobody would have known what they meant.
